Tiffany Farms to add 414 homes to village

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Village trustees approved the controversial Tiffany Farms development with a density that matched the village's comprehensive plan for the property.

United Homes of Illinois received the OK to build 414 single-family homes on approximately 169 acres on what is commonly known as the Cable property which is bordered by North Avenue, Tiffany Road and Felter's subdivisions to the west.

Prices for homes will range from $125,000 to $250,000. Negotiations are still ongoing for park land, although at least 8 acres will be dedicated as park, officials said.

The student population projected from the development ranges from as low as 356 students to as high as 900 students. The developer has agreed to pay $1.3 million in school impact fees to Districts 34 and 117. At build out, the expected EAV is estimated at $20.7 million which can be taxed for the local systems in the future.

Robert Silhan, director of planning and zoning, pointed out that United Homes agreed to single-family zoning for the entire property, although the existing zoning on the property asks for multi-family apartments and higher density single-family homes which could have called for up to 530 units on the property.

But United Homes agreed to the comprehensive plan's 414 units.

Weed-eating weevil attracts attention

It may sound strange, but residents living along the Chain O' Lakes, boaters and tourists who use the lake system may welcome the introduction of the weevil—a bug.

According to Carolyn Jonites, president of the United Homeowners Associations of Unincorporated Antioch (UHAUA), the weevil has been spotted in McHenry County munching on the pesty Eurasian Milfoil, a weed that disrupts recreation on the lakes and channels.

"It is probably one of the biggest problems we have on the chain," Jonites said of the unwanted and highly reproductive plant.

Jonites said she has spoken with environmentalists from the Lake County Health Department who have hinted toward experimenting with the weevil on the chain.

"This will be a few years down the line, but for now we will have to use standard ways of removing the Eurasian Milfoil from our lakes," Jonites said. For many, the standard method is raking the plant from the water.

Jonites said the weevil is being monitored on McCollum Lake in McHenry.

Kudos were plentiful as the village Finance Committee completed its budget process before June for the first time.

Before the Antioch board of trustees approved the 1996-97 budget which includes $6.2 million in expenditures and $6.3 million in projected revenues, Village Administrator Tim Wells praised the efficiency and expediency of the Finance Committee.

"This is the first time in 22 years that we've had a proposal done in April," Wells said. The committee is chaired by Trustee Wayne Foresta.

The budget projects about $207,000 in excess revenues to be appropriated as contingency should unforeseen needs confront the village during the next year.

Wells also pointed out that the TIF district increased in value which boosts the opportunity to make additional improvements downtown. He credited the increase in the assessed valuation to the improvements at "Williams Emporium."

"Hopefully that will continue to go up," Wells said of the assessed value of the TIF district. "It allows us to continue our facade program. Whatever we gain in that district will go back into the district."

Wells said the introduction of the Centegra Health System medical building See BUDGET page A10

Relief available for wind storm damage

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

For those still scratching their heads and wondering what to do about damage done by last month's wind blasts, relief may be a phone call away.

According to Antioch Mayor Michael Shineflug, individuals and small businesses who suffered damages or losses as a result of the severe storms and tornado may be eligible for assistance from a variety of state, federal and voluntary agencies.

After violent winds struck pockets of Antioch Township and a tornado touched down in Zion, Governor Jim Edgar declared northern Lake County a natural disaster area, which opened the door for federal assistance.

Shineflug stressed that natural disaster relief is designed to supplement insurance coverage or help those who lacked insurance or sufficient coverage.

"It seems its for those people who are not covered by insurance,"

Nevertheless, Shineflug said there are various opportunities for relief.

Housing assistance includes emergency repairs to make a residence habitable and mortgage and rental assistance in cases when the disaster caused extreme economic hardship.

Various grants may be available to reimburse expenses not covered by insurance.

Weekly benefits may be available for those individuals out of work due to the disaster. Other programs include funding for crises counseling and loans to replace personal property.

For small businesses, low-interest disaster loans will be available to repair or replace damaged business facilities.

Shineflug said the village could be eligible for reimbursement to pay the overtime accrued by village personnel assisting residents and the village infrastructure following the wind storm.

"We're putting together the number of hours our staff worked," Shineflug said. She also said village staff is working on total damage estimates as well.

The number to call for federal disaster relief information is 1-800-462-

When calling, it helpful to have the following information available: phone number, address of damaged property, address of where now staying, Social Security number, general list of damages, directions to the property, insurance policy number and name of insurance company if insured, and general financial information.

CAN begins planning as chamber committee

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

After both organizations voted to approve the merger, Community Action Now (CAN) is reorganizing as a committee under the umbrella of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

CAN will still maintain its independence as a separate committee of the chamber, and CAN will continue to focus its efforts toward the betterment of downtown.

"It's a done deal," noted Barbara Porch, a member of CAN and a member of the chamber's board of directors. "It's been a smooth transition because CAN and the chamber sponsored many events together. We're used to working together."

She stressed, "CAN will be a committee of the chamber but its (CAN's) sole concentration will be downtown Antioch."

Porch noted that the chamber aims to improve the business climate in the greater Antioch area, while CAN focuses on improving business for downtown merchants.

She said one of the benefits of CAN becoming a part of the chamber is that it can now attract more manpower for CAN-sponsored activities. Specifically, Porch said CAN will be seeking greater support from the downtown retailers.

In the meantime, members of the CAN committee are fine-tuning its organization as a committee and streamlining its subcommittees so as not to duplicate efforts of the chamber.

One of the new bylaws of the chamber stipulates that at least two members from the CAN Committee sit on the chamber's nine-member board of directors. Currently, three members from CAN sit on the chamber board including Porch of Choosey Child, Larry Hansen of BJ's Fashions for Men, and Karen Dunham of the First National Bank of Antioch.

CAN will still hold monthly meetings. A regularly scheduled meeting date will be determined.

In other business, CAN raffle tickets are available. Tickets are $100 a piece. The grand prize is $10,000. There will also be 10 chances for $200 prizes. Porch said ticket sales are limited to 260 tickets total.

"Since we have 11 winners out of 260 tickets, the odds of winning are really good," Porch said. "All the money we raise goes back into downtown."

The drawing will be held July 7 during the July 4th celebration. Tickets are available through CAN members or by calling the chamber at 395-2233.

CAN members are in the process of developing "Shopper Guides" for downtown which would provide a listing and map of the downtown businesses.

"They will be like 'You Are Here' maps," Porch explained.

CAN hopes to develop three Shopper Guides to be placed at three key locations downtown.

Porch said CAN will be an active participant in the development of the wetlands restoration park behind downtown on Skidmore Drive.

Young people sought for Police Dept. Explorer Post

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Police Department is looking for a few good, young men and women to lead Antioch Police Explorer Post 15.

Pre-registration and applications are available at the Antioch Police Department until May 23. An orientation day to determine new Explorer members will be scheduled shortly after pre-registration is complete.

"Our goal is to promote the post for the young people in town who may have an interest in law enforcement and expose them to what it is like to be a public servant," said Sergeant Ron Roth.

He said applicants must be utmost citizens in the community age 14 to 20 with a sincere interest in law enforcement.

Explorers will meet every other week for two to three hours of classes and hands-on training.

"The training is similar to Police Academy training," Roth said. "We teach the Explorers the same thing as we would teach police recruits such as ethics, integrity and pride."

Correction

Fire Chief Dennis Volling was incorrectly pictured in the Antioch Community Guide, published in the May 3 edition of the Antioch News-Reporter. The photo of former chief William Carney was identified as Volling.

The Antioch News-Reporter deeply regrets the error and wishes Chief Volling great success in his new position which he assumed May 1.

A number of different officers from the Antioch force voluntarily teach the classes and train the Explorers. Some of the training includes report writing, operating radios, self-defense, first-aid, arrest procedures, public relations, and investigation techniques.

Antioch Explorers also compete with other posts from across the state.

"We take this very seriously and grade our Explorers like we would police recruits. Our post has done very well," said Roth, who noted the post has taken home several awards and trophies for its training abilities.

Explorers also assist Antioch officers with numerous civic events for traffic control, crowd control and minor security. Two years ago, the post finger printed 750 children during the Taste of Antioch.

Roth said pre-registration forms are available at the police department. For more information, call 395-8585.

"It takes a special person to be an Explorer," Roth said. "They honestly want to help the community."

St. Peter's invites all to health fair

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

While you're running your Saturday errands, it may be a benefit to your health to stop by the St. Peter Social Center.

The St. Peter School Family Association is sponsoring a health fair May 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"It will give people the opportunity to have their blood pressure tested, and then go about their business," noted Diane Nelson, a coordinator of the event.

There will be a variety of informational booths, tables and exhibits open on good health for all ages.

Nurse Patti Cizowski and her team of health care professionals from the community outreach program at St. Therese Medical Center will be on hand to offer free blood pressure and glucose screenings. Cholesterol screenings will be $5.

Representatives from the Antioch Rescue Squad, the Antioch Fire Department and the Antioch Police Department will be available for small clinics.

Dr. Daniel Boarini, a dentist, will present information on child tooth care and dentistry.

Dr. Mitch Jackson, an eye specialist, will give screenings for cataract and refractive eye surgery.

A number of other organizations will also be on hand.

Representatives from Hastings YMCA will give instruction on water safety. The Lake County Health Department will display its "Safety House" in which children can peek into the house to pick out household hazards. Discovery Toys will display safe and unsafe toys.

There will also be a Teddy Bear clinic for children to learn first-aid and simple health care techniques.

"Kids can bring their Teddy Bears and have them repaired. It's a learning process for them," Nelson said.

The health fair is free. Healthy snacks will be available.

"We encourage people to take advantage of this opportunity about protecting their health," Nelson said.

TROUBLESOME FOOTWEAR

The design of certain types of footwear can strain your feet. Very thin soles, for example, do not absorb the impact of walking on hard surfaces. This can produce a nerve disorder known as Morton's neuroma. A vague feeling of discomfort in early stages may be the prelude to stabbing pains that extend to the toes or heel. In early stages the condition responds to medications, but advanced stages usually require surgery.

High heels subject the balls of the feet and the toes to excessive pounding. Frequent wearing of high heels can lead to bone or joint deformities.

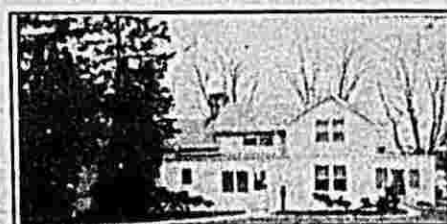

Sandals should not be worn for long periods. Repeated slapping of the sandal against the rear surface of the foot bottom may cause a thick buildup of callus-like tissue which eventually becomes painful.

Minors caught drinking

While on routine patrol May 2, police stopped a driver near Williams Park for not having an operating rear registration license plate light. Police noticed a strong odor of alcohol coming from the two passengers who appeared under the legal age to consume alcohol. Police arrested Ricky Johnson, 18, of Antioch, and Joshua Punko, 20, of Antioch, for consumption of alcohol by a minor. Both told police they had been drinking prior to getting into the vehicle. The driver said he was taking the two passengers out to eat. The driver was given a written warning for improper display of a license plate. Police gave Johnson and Punko breath tests. Johnson registered a .10, while Punko registered a .19. Both are scheduled to appear in Grayslake court May 22.

Leaves fender-bender scene

believed responsible for a minor accident April 24. Police charged William Lama, 39, of Lake Villa, for driving while revoked, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, and failure to give information at an accident. While stopped near the traffic light on Route 173 and Route 83, a Twin Lakes, Wis., driver reported Lama brushing the side of the car while trying to come to a quick stop. Both Lama and the Twin Lakes driver pulled into the Antioch Community High School parking lot to evaluate damages. Lama offered to take them to a bar to settle the matter. The Twin Lakes driver declined, and Lama left the scene. After a license plate check, police later found the car and the Twin Lakes driver identified it as the one responsible for the accident. Lama was released on recognizance and will appear in Grayslake court June 12.

We went through labor for this? -NEW ARRIVALS-

As you all probably know due to the pomp and circumstance of the previous weeks, Mother's Day is this Sunday. If you live in a cave or a home not modernized by the conveniences of indoor plumbing and electricity, then perhaps you may have missed the latest barrage of publicity this momentous occasion has received.

Every time you pick up a newspaper or turn on the TV, radio or microwave, someone is in your face making this grand proclamation and riddling you with unworthiness and guilt—like your mother's own subtle hints aren't enough of a clue. Kids are very perceptive and know the sudden show of constant attention and thoughtfulness from their moms is in full swing gearing up for that big Sunday in May. They even see signs of the approaching holiday at school.

Ask your kids what goodies have been suddenly appearing on their desk at treat time; you will find out first hand it has definitely been a diversion from the normal treat fare. Instead of store-bought cookies, cheese popcorn and boring pretzel sticks, suddenly these kids are being lavished with hand-dipped, chocolate covered strawberries, cupcakes baked inside ice cream cones complete with frosting and sprinkles, ice cream cones in the shape of clowns catered by Baskin and Robbins, and live lobster flown in fresh from Maine. (Okay, maybe I made that last one up—but I bet if you checked with students from a school in, let's say Lake Forest, just such a delicacy might not be so unrealistic.)

come out with some really "to die for" Happy Meal toys because they know that moms who don't normally give in and buy these overpriced meals for their cherubs wouldn't dare refuse those pleas around this time of year. Actually, if the head honchos at the Big Mac Headquarters were smart, they would just fill those flimsy cardboard box meals with stuff left over from previous promotions that sit filling up space in their warehouses. This time of year they could be giving away S&H green stamps and moms would feel obligated to spend their hard-earned money on them just to make little children happy.

These last couple of weeks moms all over the country have been observed performing monumental tasks while muttering, "This better get me Mother of the Year." Let's face it, we would all like to think our kids feel we are great moms. We try so hard. We nurture them through sickness, scraped knees and broken hearts; we chauffeur; we work on science projects till the wee hours of the morning; we praise, we reward; we pack creative culinary delights in lunches and of course we keep them warm, dry, fed, bathed and clothed. Yet as moms we get minimal recognition—loads of dirty laundry and dishes—but minimal recognition.

Now dads, well that's another whole story. Dads can lay around in their underwear, drink beer and watch TV while making noises with their various body parts, and partake very little in the daily routine and upkeep of child rearing. Yet all this man has to do is take his children to the park for 10 minutes one Saturday and he is next to Godly. And after all of our weeks of civility, over generosity, ample attention and maxed out Visa cards, come Sunday morning we will be greeted, not with an official "Mother of the Year" certificate, but with a Styrofoam cup full of some wilted marigolds, a crayon-written card full of excessive amounts of glue and glitter, not to mention splattered with a bit of dirt, and a big slobbering kiss.

Kind of makes you wonder if that 39 hours of intense labor without the drugs was really worth all the trouble. Our only salvation is that our children will someday have children of their own—ah, there is a God! Happy Mother's Day.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"...don't forget to call 395-6364.

Post Office encourages spring mailbox repair

The U.S. Post Office is asking all Antioch homeowners to inspect and repair their mailboxes during "Mailbox Improvement Week," May 20-25.

"Repairing suburban and rural mailboxes improves the appearance of our community and makes delivering and receiving mail safer for our carriers and customers," said Jerry Bohmann, carrier supervisor for the Antioch Post Office.

The Postal Service makes this yearly request because of the wear and tear that occurs to mailboxes every year, especially after the effects of winter.

Some helpful tips for mailbox care include:

- Replacing loose hinges on mailbox door;
- Repainting a mailbox that may have rusted or started peeling;
- Remounting a mailbox post if loosened;
- Replacing or adding house numbers;

If a homeowner plans to install or replace a mailbox, the homeowner must use only USPS-approved traditional or contemporary mailboxes.

Bohmann said customers may use a custom-built mailbox, but they must consult with the Post Office to ensure it conforms to guidelines applying to flat, size, strength and quality of construction.

For more information about mailbox restoration, call 395-0097.

'Friends' lend helping hand to upkeep Centennial Park

"Friends of the Playground" are planning to seal all the wood surfaces of Centennial Playground, May 13, starting at 4 p.m.

As a result of the playground being covered with wood sealer, it will be closed for the evening.

Friends of the Playground seeks volunteers to assist with sealing the playground equipment. Adults and children over 8 are welcome. Old clothes are suggested.

Centennial Playground was built in 1992 in commemoration of the village's 100th anniversary. The entire playground was built with donated funds and volunteer labor. More than $90,000 was raised to build the playground, and 2,000 volunteers helped build the park in five days.

This month marks the fourth anniversary since the construction of the park.

The Friends of the Playground is a group of volunteers dedicated to the maintenance of the playground twice a year in the spring and in the fall.

ACHS students help 'Make A Difference'

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

More than 100 Antioch Community High School students took it upon themselves to make a difference in someone else's life.

As part of the "You Make A Difference Scholarship" program, students helped raise nearly $2,500 during a telemarketing blitz at Lakeland Newspapers in Grayslake.

Through the subscription fund-raiser, "You Make A Difference" scholarships will be awarded to students planning to pursue a post-secondary education. Lakeland Newspapers will donate $5 for every new subscription and $3 for every renewed subscription toward the scholarship fund.

As part of the fund-raising campaign, students, teachers and parents converged at the newspaper offices for two days of telemarketing.

During the two-day telethon April 27-28, there were 477 subscription orders made and 150 flat-out donations for a total of 628 contributions made toward the scholarship fund.

"I think it was really successful, and I think the kids had a whole lot of fun," said Karen O'Toole, circulation manager.

"They just took to it. They got on the phone and cranked out the calls," said O'Toole, who praised the students for their professionalism.

Subscription orders under the scholarship program will continue to be accepted through mid-May.

Mick Torres, assistant principal, said he was excited about how much money was raised. When the numbers become more firm, Torres said a scholarship committee will determine how many scholarships will be awarded.

"This was for a noble cause," Torres noted. "It was a real positive weekend."

The gist of the "You Make A Difference" program at the high school is to recognize those students each month who have made an impact in school or in the community.

When Lakeland Publisher William Schroeder heard of the program, he likened the idea of expanding it to a scholarship program through a subscription drive.

"We're recognizing that there is more than academic achievement. There are numerous other civic deeds and services that students do that are just as worthy as getting good grades," said Torres, describing the "You Make A Difference" program.

Through Scouts, church groups and other volunteer activities, Torres stressed that students frequently contribute to their community, and the "You Make A Difference" program recognizes them for their selfless efforts.

"Through the scholarships, there's an opportunity now for a financial incentive to do those deeds and services," Torres said.

The "You Make A Difference" program has also caught the attention of local officials and business owners. For the first time this year, the six Antioch car dealers will donate six scholarships as part of Automania May 16-18.

Eligibility requirements for the Lakeland scholarships include continuing with a post-secondary education and writing a narrative about how the individual made a difference in school or in the community. Students must have participated in the telemarketing drive as well. Freshmen, sophomores and juniors who volunteered will be eligible for the scholarship in future years.

To subscribe to Lakeland Newspapers under the scholarship drive, call O'Toole at 223-8161, ext. 135.

Editor's note: The following two columns are written by students in teacher Sharon Peterson's science class at Antioch Community High School. The class hopes to increase scientific literacy and share their ideas and knowledge in this monthly column.

The benefits and risks of insecticides

Insecticides are rarely selective: they can thus harm species other than target insects. Animals at higher levels in ecological food webs are particularly at risk from the more persistent insecticides, since residues pass from one species to another during predation. For example, the decimation of birds of prey in the U.S. and Europe, the decline of the English otter, and the deaths of seals in the Dutch Waddensea.

A major problem with the use of insecticides is the development of resistance by the pests. Natural selection can rapidly produce a pest population that is unaffected by an insecticide. The amount is then increased or an alternative found.

Also, the widespread use of pesticides affects humans as well. Long-term health affects of chronic pesticide exposure include cancers, birth defects, genetic damage. Illnesses caused by chemical poisoning are especially prevalent among farm workers who handle pesticides or work with recently treated fields.

More than two-thirds of all pesticides produced in North America, Western Europe, and Japan, and one has to consider the cost-benefit relationship from the viewpoint of both the farmer and the consumer. In many countries, farmers are forced to seek the hectare. In the United States, for instance, the average yield of wheat is about 2 tonnes per hectare. But conditions differ, therefore, even amongst the most advanced countries, where yields at about 5 t/ha are quite common. Therefore, in a sense pesticides cannot produce yield increases: they can only prevent losses. On the other hand, it has to be remembered that many crops could not be grown profitably without pesticides. If the yield falls below the norm of profitability the farmer will be forced to give up. In the past crop failures were caused by outbreaks of insect pests and fungi resulting from particular weather conditions, which made it impossible for the farmer to predict his crop. The introduction of modern pesticides has radically changed this situation. Also, pesticides and insecticides have influence on the quality of the product in a bad as well as the good way. Generally, fresh fruit and vegetables cannot be sold if they show any traces of infection or insect infestation. It is well known that agricultural products deteriorate in transport and storage much more rapidly if they previously been damaged by pest organisms: some of those organisms may, indeed, cause disease and even death in animals and also humans.

Some side-effects are beneficial. Thus, weed control is aimed at eradicating competition with the crop but it also may eliminate wild hosts of plant viruses and plant nematodes. The consumer could be reduced by a higher crop yields resulting from an increase in the use of pesticides. The farmer has no choice but to keep his expenditure as low as possible and to increase his earnings as much as he can. And so the only way of producing more food is to increase yields. Therefore, on intensively managed agricultural holdings, with a high level of investment, the higher yield is linked with a higher investment in crop protection.—by Julie Korval

Chemical insecticides: Risks and benefits

New chemical insecticides are continuously being tested to find their benefits and their risks. This poses a question. What are the most important things to test for? This question has many answers. A few of these are the effectiveness, health risks, and the effect the chemical will have on the overall environment.

Most obviously and importantly, chemicals should be tested for their effectiveness. If a chemical does not work as an insecticide, one should not use it. Over the years, studies have shown that certain insects have become resistant to certain chemicals in insecticides (Alstad, 1995). In addition, how will the chemicals in the insecticides help or hurt the environment?

Insecticides are used to help keep insects from destroying cal compound should not break down into any product that may later hurt other crops or have harmful effects upon the people working with them. Other questions that should be asked are the following: How will the use of the insecticide affect the wildlife? Will insecticides travel through the soil and reach the water cycle?

Due to the possibility of health risks, all of the new chemicals should be thoroughly tested. A chemical on the market should not be used if there is a possibility that there is a risk to the community. This may seem like a given, but like many other things, sometimes a product cannot be thoroughly tested due to the lack of equipment or technology. "After learning that the outdoor use of chlordane—a highly toxic termite killer—could taint the indoor air of a treated structure for a year, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency got the manufacturer to halt sales in 1987. Contamination could persist through 1991. Moreover, Houston residents suffer protracted neurotoxicity" (Science News, 1995). Due to this and several other cases, any insecticide should be thoroughly analyzed before marketed.

In conclusion, there are a number of aspects to consider regarding the production and use of new chemical insecticides. These factors include health risks, the environmental effects, and the chemical's effectiveness as a pest control agent.—by Dawn Fuller

Kickin' and stompin' at Waterfalls

There is a lot of hootin', holierin', kickin' and stompin' going on each Thursday evening at the Waterfalls Banquet Hall and Restaurant in Antioch, when local Country Western Line Dancers gather to kick up their heels in style.

The Waterfalls is a beautiful facility and if the crowd keeps growing, there is potential to expand the dance floor to accommodate more dancers. The DJ/Dance Instructor is the talented, energetic, fun-loving Louise Butterbaugh. Opening night was April 18 and Butterbaugh played a large variety of foot stompin' music requests for open line dancing and also taught three dances over the course of the three hour evening.

To learn something new and exciting and get a little exercise while doing so, come to the Waterfalls Restaurant, located on Route 173 in Antioch, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. each Thursday evening.

property expired and whether it was possible to downzone the property further, Village Attorney Kenneth Clark said the plan for 414 units is still less than the allowable single-family zoning (R-1) negotiated.

"If you downsize to R-1, they will still be allowed to build 464 units," Clark said. "My read on this is that you're getting what the comprehensive plan calls for and it's the least bad of the bad solutions."

He said expensive lawsuits would be imminent if the village attempted to reduce the existing zoning.

Trustee Wayne Foresta urged the builder to install a complete paved walkway to link the subdivision with the adjacent Dist. 34 schools. Foresta said the walkway was necessary to prevent students from walking on heavily traveled Tiffany Drive.

Michael Cason, vice president of United Homes, said negotiations are still ongoing with the Dist. 34, but he said the builder will install a complete path from the southern part of the subdivision to the school property.

Cason also agree to fund entirely a traffic study at the intersection of Route 173 and Tiffany Rd. required before the Illinois Department of Transportation would approve a traffic signal at the deadly intersection.

"We're willing to cover the costs of the study to speed up the process of getting alight there," Cason said.

The village would still shoulder engineering costs for the light, but Mayor Marilyn Shineslug said the village will seek federal grants. If IDOT approves a light there, it could be installed by next spring.

Cason also addressed several erosion and privacy concerns from Bill Roman, president of the Felter's Association. Roman believes increased erosion will accumulate into Lake Catherine from the development. He also fears residents and children from Tiffany Farms may trespass onto the private beaches and parks maintained by the Felter's homeowners.

Cason said the builder will adhere to all local storm water management guidelines including more stringent guidelines by the township.

Construction crawl on Rte. 83

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Residents beware, road construction is upon you.

Rte. 83 and Monaville Road improvements are underway. Cedar Lake Road construction is picking up again with a resurfacing project north of Rollins Road to Monaville.

Expect traffic delays on Rte. 83 as paving and intersection work near Monaville is completed. This is being supervised by the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT).

The road is being repaved and a left turn lane is to be added, according to IDOT officials. The left-turn lane will go about 300 feet to Monaville.

A traffic signal will eventually be installed as funds become available. However the intersection is number 47 on a list of 75.

Much of the Rte. 83 work is developer related.

Cambridge Homes is responsible for the portion by Fox Chase and Silver Oaks subdivisions. That work is expected to be completed in two weeks, according to Steve Menz, spokesman for Cambridge.

Menz added the Monaville work will be done after the Cambridge work is completed.

The paving for Cedar Lake Road began in earnest on May 7. The work is expected to be completed by late summer, according to Dusty Powell of Lake County Division of Transportation.

The $676,000 project has a tentative completion date of Aug. 15, according to Bob Shellenberger, inspector for Lake County Division of Transportation. The contractor is Peter Baker & Sons.

Lake County will be responsible for the project. The lanes will be widened and resurfaced. A turn lane will be added at the Eagle Creek subdivision.

Library to travel the Reading Highway

Reading will not take a summer vacation at the Antioch Public Library.

Summer readers are invited to join the fun at the "Travel the Reading Highway" program at the Antioch Public Library by registering May 27 through June 12.

Children from ages 3 years old through eighth grade will "Travel the Reading Highway" with plenty of special programs, games, fun and prizes.

"We always have a summer reading program" said Joan Padbury, head of children's services.

During the six-week program June 17 through July 26, school age children will read to make their self-assigned weekly goal.

School-aged children are encouraged to read at least one book a week, if not more. Parents of preschool age children, however, are asked to read at least five books a week to their young children.

"For parents, we're telling the parents how many books they have to read, so the parents are reading to their children," Padbury said.

Throughout the summer program, special celebrations will be held outside behind the library at Williams Park. Some of the programs "The Dave Herzog Marionettes" and "Songs and Stories Unlimited with Kala Wood"

Padbury said different performers will be at the park each week. There will also be movies each week, craft days and other events.

"The 'Rope Warrior' will kick off the summer reading program at the Lions Pavilion June 17 with a performance at 2 p.m. Registration will be held at library from May 28 to June 12. For more information, call 395-0874.—by KEVIN HANRAHAN and the new wetlands restoration park are other projects which will enhance the TIF district.

This year's budget includes several capital improvement projects.

In the parks, approximately $30,200 will be spent for a new pavilion at Pedersen Park, $10,000 for a walking trail at Centennial Park, and repairs and improvements at the Scout House, the Senior Center and several other parks. The pool will also get a new filtering system for $26,000.

The village allocated $150,000 for a new fire maintenance building which will be used by both the fire and public works departments. The village budgeted $50,000 to upgrade the sewer systems in parts of the village.

Village trustees also lent their support behind a $20,000 allocation to improve the sidewalks in various parts of the village. The village intends to repair sidewalks where it is needed and make additional connections where there are no sidewalks. Trustees are looking at a year 10-year sidewalk program.

Various village departments will also receive new vehicles and upgrades in their computer systems.

In other Antioch Township related news, Jonites learned the county's study to determine the feasibility of sewer services in unincorporated Antioch is approximately 40 percent complete.

The county allocated more than $28,500 to study the possibility of sewer service, including non-sewer alternatives in areas that might be too costly for sewer services.

"It is progressing," Jonites said. The study could be completed in another six weeks.

Jonites also has a map on hand which indicates the specific areas where the Fox Waterway Agency intends to remove buoys on Lake Catherine, Channel Lake, Lake Marie, and Grass Lake.

Ramig hits, pitches ACHS to needed win

After suffering a letdown in the prior conference game, Antioch bounced back with a 13-hit attack and earned a split against Mundelein.

Antioch won 9-5 for an even 4-4 record in North Suburban Conference play.

"We made some costly mistakes in the first game against them. We definitely swing the bat harder and our defense improved in the second game," ACHS Coach Paul Petty said.

Chris Ramig gained the win for a 5-1 record. "He had quite a bit of control," Petty said.

Ramig had 2 triples and a single for an RBI. Multiple-hit games came from Stuart Johnson (2-of-4, double, RBI); Kevin Arft (2-of-4, RBI); and Chris Groth (3 doubles, 3 RBIs).

"He has been on base several times. He slashes it to the inside to left field," Petty said.

Petty lamented one weakness of the 14-6, 4-4 NSC team - walks. "When teams walk against us, they score," he said.

The Sequoits take on league co-leader Zion-Benton at home May 11 for two. North Chicago completed a two-game set May 9 at home.

"If we can play our game, we can beat anyone," Petty said.

ACHS softballers saddle Mustangs

The ACHS junior varsity softball team entertained arch-rival Mundelein, coming away with an 11-4 victory.

The Sequoits were nursing a 5-2 lead going into the bottom of the fifth inning when Kacy Koperski led off with a bunt single. Nicole Langley followed with a sacrifice, and Jenny Minor waited out a walk.

The next three Sequoit hitters, Kristina Lochhead, Jocelyn McRae and Shannah Jaburek, all reached base and helped to ring up three additional insurance runs. With the win, the ACHS record stands at 10-1-1, with a North Suburban Conference record of 6-1.

Aggressive play asissts CLC win two sectional clashes

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Give them a few feet, and College of Lake County's baseball team will probably make an opposing team pay.

Such was the case for Morton, which fell to the Lancers twice in Sectional East play at CLC. The Lancers downed Morton 8-5 and 7-6 as highlights of the four-game set. They could not beat McHenry, which moves on with 4-2 and 4-3 in 10 innings wins over the Lancers.

The Lancers conclude the season 32-10 and with only a few sophs on the team, finishing runner-up to a ranked team will be viewed as an accomplishment.

"We have nothing to be ashamed of. For the freshmen, that is something to build on for next year," Gene Hanson, CLC coach, said.

The tourney at CLC began in promising fashion as the Lancers broke free from a 4-4 tie for a two-run lead against Morton. Mike Cenni's double was key as it led to Cory Clark scoring on a wild pitch. Pitcher Joe Barnhardt had a no-hitter threw five innings of the nine-inning clash.

"It just depends on the count," Clark said of the Lancers base speed strategy.

Morton tied it up in the ninth, only to see CLC win the game in its half of the 10th.

Casey O'Connell, the winning pitcher, had his only at-bat of the season and drew a walk. Matt Head then put down a perfect sacrifice bunt, Levar Dillard singled and another walk loaded the bases. When the Morton pitcher unloaded his second wild pitch of the inning, CLC had a post-season win.

"That is about the fifth time Matt has put down a bunt for a hit this year," Hanson said.

Supplying the earlier power was Mike Niemczyk, who clubbed a three-run homer.

Hanson said the Lancers are a year ahead of schedule with the Skyway Conference tourney championship and the post-season win, which may helped to console some frustrated players Saturday afternoon.

"When we swept the conference tournament, we came in here with high heads about the post-season," Hanson said.

Stevenson continues to dominate NSC girls track

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Maybe it was the shoes.

Kristin Pace cleared 5'5" to win the high jump competition at North Suburban Conference's girls track and field meet.

Pace, a freshman, also benefited from the more spring-like conditions Saturday, as Warren claimed fourth place in the meet with 84 points.

Stevenson took home the big trophy with 143 points and Lake Forest was second with 92. Libertyville topped Warren for third with 90 points. Stevenson won the overall title as well, for the second time in three years.

"I just pray and I wore my lucky shoes. I have been doing good with shoes with no spikes. That is what my father said," Pace commented.

This whole team thing is a new approach for the Blue Devil. She had to sit her eighth grade season out due to an injury.

"This is the first time I have ever been on a track team. I went to grade school in Arizona in Mesa and competed as an individual. I was really nervous because I did not know who I was up against. I was pretty scared," Pace said.

Warren Coach Michelle Fox said the Blue Devils have a good chance to qualify individuals or relays for the state meet next week at Eastern Illinois University. Warren and most of Lake County vied for the spots at the May 9 Grayslake sectional.

Other Warren highlights were provided by Caryn Poliquin, with second place finishes in the shot put and discus. Shaneka Williams was third in the 100 and 200. The 400 meter relay team was second in 51.7, edging Antioch by .10. The 800 medley relay squad was also second.

"It will depend on their mental attitude and how badly they want to win," Fox said of chances for state.

One distance ace with just those qualities is Katie Leffelman of Libertyville. She swept both distance races, the 1,600 in 5:40 and the 3,200 in 11:21.

"The 3,200 took a lot out of me," Leffelman said. "I was drained at the end. There really isn't a way to save up energy."

Leffelman qualified for both races to state last year, and just missed the state finals with a 13th place. The top 12 go to finals.

"I'm not looking to qualify in the two-mile. I really like the mile," Leffelman said. "I am hoping to make it to the finals. There is not much more training you can do - it is a matter of resting up and get ready that day."

Leffelman is headed for Purdue University next year.

"The competition was what we expected. She got tired in the mile," LHS Coach Jim Seward said.

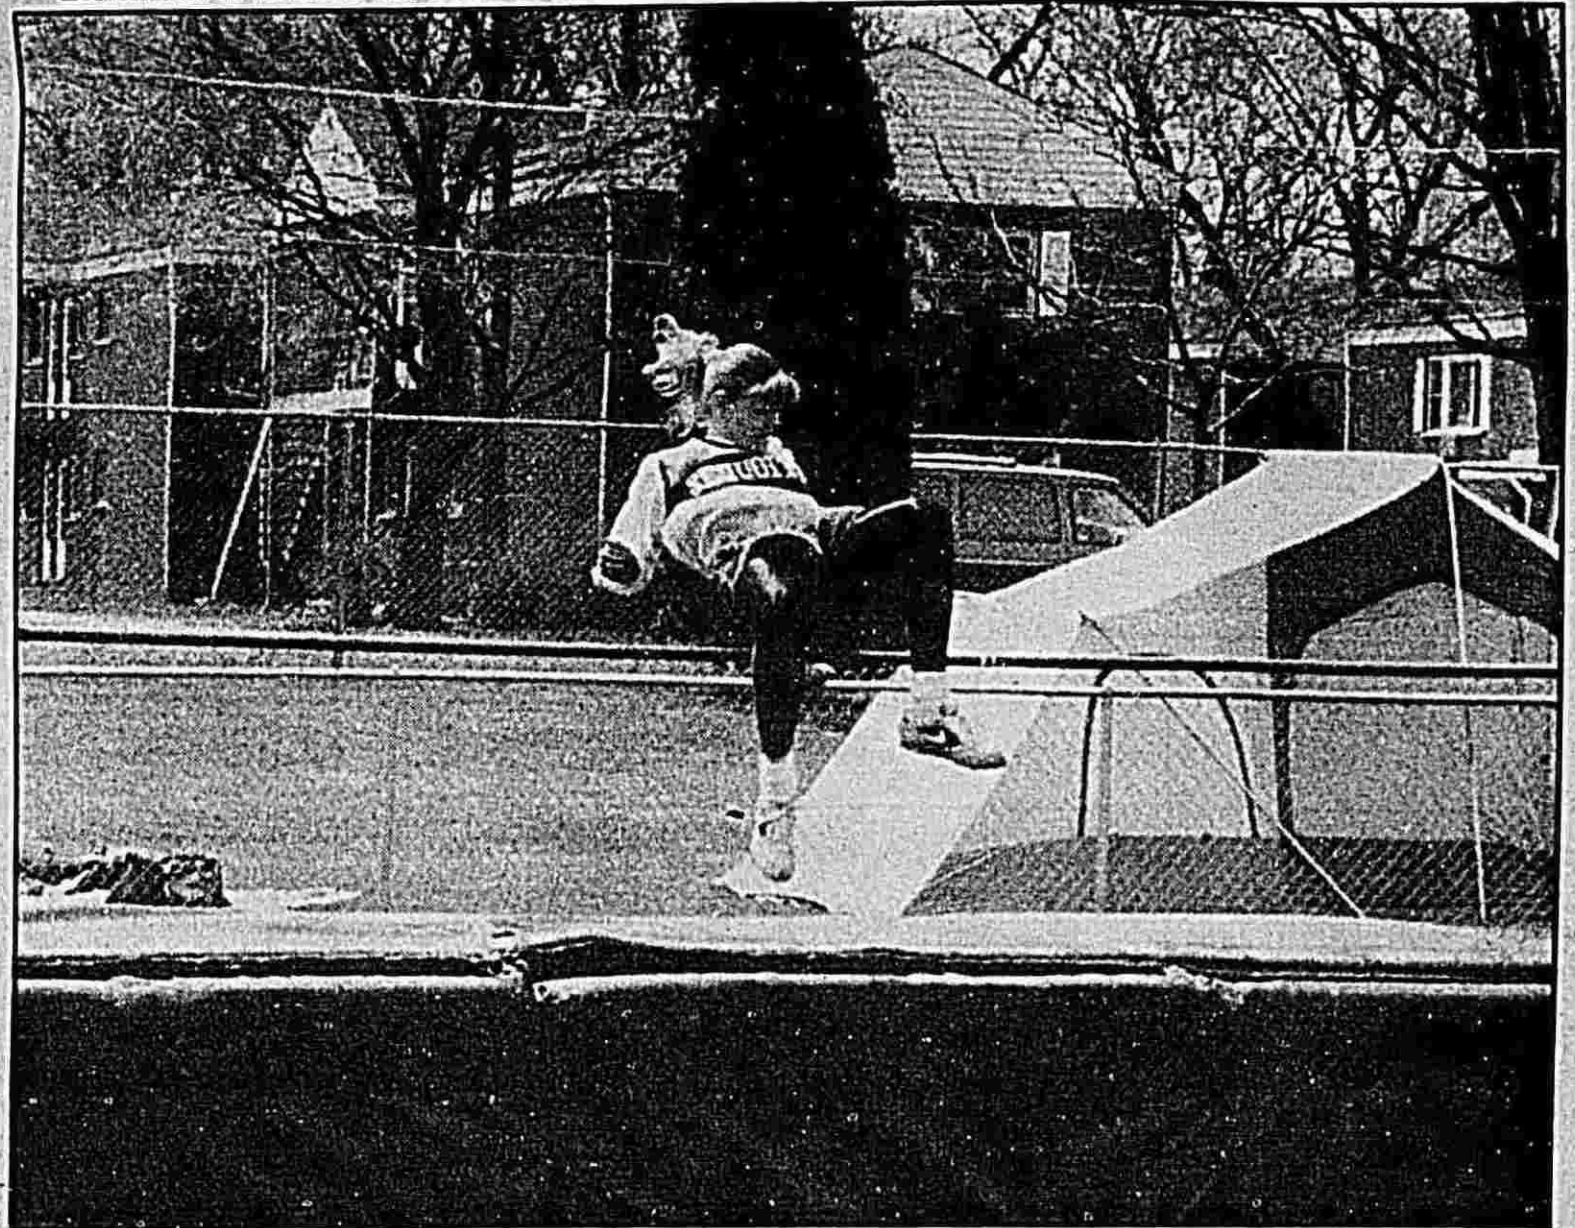

The Wildcats received points from many other positions. The 3,200 relay team of Jenny Arnold, Jessic Seme, Erin Schneiders, Jillian Chmura clocked a best 10:22.5.

Katie Crawford was second in the 110 low hurdles in 48.9; Bethany Yost finished behind Leffelman in the 3,200 and the 800 relay was third as was the 1,600 relay.

Antioch finished in seventh place with 51 points, only two behind Zion-Benton.

Mundelein finished last with 11 points, but Blaire Beatty won the 800 meter run in 2:27.2.

Migalla, Fasana lead ACHS to fifth place at county

Before the Lake County Invite began, Antioch High track and field coach Norm Hahn thought John Migalla had a good chance to fare well.

Migalla, not one to let his coach down, went out and proved him right in winning the shot put and the discus events. The wins helped Antioch gain a fifth-place finish with 39 points, edging Grayslake by one.

"He threw his best effort in the shot put," Hahn said of Migalla. Migalla had a 144 feet, 5 inch effort in the discus, while his shot put effort was 53 and one-half.

"I was hoping to throw a lot - my shoulder had been bothering me. I have an inflated tendon. Today I felt better in the shot put," Migalla said.

The weather was conducive to the field events, something not the case in this cold spring.

Migalla said he is working on a full turn on the discus approach as opposed to throwing it at three-quarters.

Migalla beat Mundelein's Mike Cockrum in the shot put by some five feet. He downed Matt Kitzke of Libertyville in the discus, who had a 141-1.

Teammate Kevin Fasana won the 110 high hurdles in 14.9. He was third in the long jump and triple jump.

"He has great form," Hahn said.

Waukegan easily won the meet with 138 points. Warren High was second with 76.

Antioch returned to Lake County meet host Warren for the NSC meet May 9. Sectional looms May 17 at Barrington.

Rivera claims both dashes; Carmel gains third at county

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Ruben Rivera overcame a little confusion and outdistanced the Lake County Invite field in two distance races.

The senior won the 100 meter dash in 10.9 seconds, the 200 meter dash in 22.2. The wins helped Carmel gain third place in the meet held at Warren High.

"I got gyped at the end of the 100 because I was not sure where the lines ended up," Rivera said.

He was without his chief rival in the state in both races, as he won the 100 by .2 seconds and the 200 by .9 seconds over Dave Norwecki of Libertyville.

"I got off to a real good start in the 200. It was more of a mental thing," he said.

The Corsairs, coming off a 73 point finish, are at the East Suburban Catholic Conference meet May 11 at Benet Academy in Lisle. The Corsairs are going for a three-peat.

Other top CHS finishes were by J.J. Larson with a third in the triple jump and discus, the 1,600 meter relay for third place and the championship by Tim Roder in the 800 meter run in 2 minutes, 1.7 seconds.

Coach Jim Halford was pleased with Rivera's effort.

"He looked great," he said.

Rivera acknowledged the team is a young one. He recalls being in the same position the underclassmen were today a few years ago.

"I try and give them tips and be a role model by my actions," Rivera said.

As for the conference, he expects a close meet, but "you don't know who will be the freshmen and sophomores who will step up."

A football standout, the Waukegan resident hopes to play for Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

He had specific goals before the Thursday night meet in Gurnee.

"I wanted to run 22.1 in the 200 as a personal goal," he said.

Carmel's third-place finish to Waukegan and runner-up Warren High was followed by Libertyville with 56 points.

The Wildcats gained second in the 3,200 and 1,600 meter relay effort with 8:03.6 and 3:32.5; the 400 relay team finished tied for third with Grayslake in :45.6. Ted Drozd ended second in the 800 meters in 2:03.5 and Dave Nawrecki in 23.1.

Mundelein received several seconds to finish seventh with 32 points. Mike Cockrum was second in the shot put in 48-11. Ryan Barry earned seconds in the 110 high hurdles in 15.6, and the 300 intermediate hurdles in 41.3.

Lake Zurich's points were led by Eric Gehrke. He was third in the 110 high hurdles.

Stevenson had 13 points. Kyle Brandt was third in the 400 in 52.2.

Stevenson hosts its own sectional May 17.

The North Suburban Conference teams were back at Warren for the league meet May 9.

Moulis, Sexton start off 1996 Wilmot season on a high note

Opening night of the 1996 racing season at Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis., was one to remember. In its first night under new management, the track produced three first-ever feature winners, along with one familiar face.

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg took the checkered flag in the 25-lap sprint feature, getting his KC's Cabin/Fox Lake Harbor Jenkins chassis into winning form. Moulis was the runner-up last season, losing his championship on the final night of racing.

"There was nothing wrong with last year's car, but we put this new car together and worked hard to get it tuned in," said Moulis. "This means a lot to our crew and our sponsors to start off well."

Moulis overtook early race leader Darrell Dodd on lap six by rim riding outside in turn four.

Dan Ratajczak of Frog Station made his racing debut, winning despite an engine oil fire in the "hot" laps. He won his first heat, then topped it off with a memorable 15-lap IMCA modified main victory.

Tom Bartz of Elkhart Lake, making his debut for the Pure Energy Racing Team, won the J&L Oil Series 15-lap mini-sprint headliner.

Antioch's Tommy Sexton, last season's mini-modified champion, moved on to a new division. He made an auspicious start, winning the 15-lap modified feature.

Sexton took the lead after the frontrunner pulled out with a broken front end three laps from the finish.

Lindenhurst Rockets U-10

The Lindenhurst Rockets battled the Mundelein Magic to a 1-1 tie Sunday despite an early lead.

Lissa Coby scored Lindenhurst's goal to give the Rockets the lead, taking the ball at center field and driving to the Mundelein goal. Mundelein responded later in the first half, scoring a goal on a free kick awarded from outside the Rockets' penalty box.

Lindenhurst got fine defensive efforts from Kristen Gagne, Calla Myslinski, Michelle Marturano and Becky McBrady. They turned back the Mundelein offense in the second half, allowing not a single shot on goal.

Lindenhurst Rockers U-11

The Lindenhurst Rockers and the Cary Defenders fought to a 1-1 tie in a game marked by solid defense.

The Rockers led 1-0 at halftime, taking the advantage on a Tanya Earl goal off of an assist by Beth Fries.

The Rockers outshot the Defenders 4-2 in the first half, but Cary turned that situation around in the second half. Cary nailed seven shots on goal in the second stanza to only three for Lindenhurst. Lauren Cole held her own in goal for Lindenhurst, giving up the tying goal on a penalty shot.

Outstanding play at midfield, led by Annie Heath and Robyn Mortensen, preserved the tie.

Lindenhurst Storm U-14

The Lindenhurst Storm defeated the Oswego Panthers 2-1 in the teams' recent IWSL match-up.

The Storm opened the scoring with a goal by Angela Tourmis. Tourmis scored on a penalty kick, finding the lower left-hand corner of the goal.

Jourdan Phillips made it 2-0 when she drilled a shot into the net from 25 yards out on a dead ball play.

The Storm, without substitutes, played most of the game with only 10 players. That situation haunted the team when goalie Susan Gosciniak was injured and had to be taken to the hospital for X-rays. Oswego later scored off of a corner kick to make it 2-1, and they kept the pressure on Lindenhurst throughout the second half.

The Storm's defense saved the day, with Cara Robinson, Lauren Beatty, Jaime Foster, Christy Plotz, Phillips and Tourmis keeping pressure on Oswego.

The Storm's record is now 1-2-1.

CHS nine nets needed win over Holy Cross

Josh Ward showed why he is the stopper of the Carmel High baseball squad's pitching staff.

Ward pitched a complete game in a 6-1 Carmel win over Holy Cross Monday after CHS was swept by Marian Catholic.

"He pitched a classic game. It was a beauty - he was in control and threw where he wanted to throw," Carmel Coach Chuck Gandolfi said.

Ward fanned 9 batters and allowed just 3 hits as Carmel improved to 11-10, 6-7 ESCC.

He was supported by an offense led by Mike McMahon's 2-run homer, Steve Golebiowski of Gurnee had a triple and single and Kevin Russell of Libertyville had 2 hits.

Glitches

McHenry used the same kind of aggressive baseball in each of its wins over CLC. Scots Coach Kim "Hoss" Johnson said his team respects the CLC's soundness on fundamentals.

McHenry put the game away with a two-run homer in the ninth inning.

CLC fell behind the 37-10 Scots early in the Saturday game and needed two wins to advance.

The Scots, after scoring the first three runs in the first two innings, could get nothing the next six and one-third against Pat Goodman. The Mundelein High graduate, back from an elbow injury, would suffer the loss. After an intentional walk in the 10th to load the bases, as Jason Watts clubbed a bases-loaded single to left.

"Pat threw strikes and got ahead of the hitters. Too bad he had to suffer the loss," Hanson said.

CLC could not find its groove against McHenry winner Adam Leonard until the seventh inning.

Bill Duncan beat out an infield hit and Steve Greenspan walked. Head then tried a bunt and when the second baseman threw wildly, Duncan scored for a 3-1 deficit. Pinch-runner Jose Rodriguez slid under the tag of the McHenry catcher for the second run as Dillard flew out to medium right field.

A ground out and a fielder's choice ended the inning.

CLC was not ready to fold up the tent on this season yet. The Lancers got one-out singles by Eric Villarreal, Bob Hlousek and Clark, with Villarreal scoring to tie the game 3-3.

But the Lancers could not take the lead as a fly out, strikeout and weak ground out set the stage for McHenry to make it their year.

"We played well and we lost to a solid team. We had our early chances, but we had some defensive mistakes," Hanson said.

"Next year," one fan said as the Lancers walked off their field with their season over.

With five spots on the roster filled by some heavier hitters, the prediction of success in 1997 may become reality.

Fox Waterway Agency works on river safety issues

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Fox Waterway Agency officials went through the agenda smoothly and efficiently at their last regular board meeting held at the McHenry High School West Campus facility.

The high school was rented for the meeting spot originally because a public hearing on a proposed speed limit was slated. It was canceled, however, after talks Johnsburg had with the Agency.

Executive Director Karen Kabbes explained two additions were made to the regular meeting plan—buoys and boat slips.

While there has been much opposition to a 35 mph. proposed speed limit for weekends and holidays, both the village and the Agency agreed to do something which would promote safety on the congested portion of the river in Johnsburg.

Buoys alerting boaters will be placed at both the north and south ends of the river. The buoys will state 'Danger-congested area-slow-stay to the right next two miles.'

"We're not making regulations, but we're alerting boaters," Kabbes explained. The buoys will specifically be placed at the south end of Pistakee Lake and just north of Dutch Creek.

Also the Agency is planning to ask permission from the

McHenry County Highway Department in order to place tape markers on the bridge both upstream and downstream the river.

Per an agreement with the state, the Fox Waterway Agency will be leasing 28 of its 48 piers. Kabbes explained the proceeds will go towards updating and modifying the former Hidden Cove Marina site which now serves as home to the Agency.

Cost for a slip with water and electricity is $950; without either water or electricity, pier slips will be $800.

Call the Fox Waterway Agency for more information at (847) 587-8540.

Chain O'Lakes Park balances preservation, recreation

When the famous Marquette and Joliet expedition first came upon the Chain 'O Lakes region the late 1600s, one of the men was said to have exclaimed "Everything we need is here. This is a veritable Eden." He was astounded by the raw beauty of the area and the abundance of wildlife.

Hundreds of years later, the Chain 'O Lakes is still known far and wide for its scenic beauty and abundant wildlife. In that time, however, the lakes have also become known as one of the premier recreation areas in the Midwest, and are the largest concentration of natural lakes in Illinois.

The lakes making up the chain include Nippersink, Marie and Grass lakes, in addition to Pistakee, Bluff, Fox, Petite, Channel, Catherine and Redhead lakes, which are connected by the Fox River.

Despite the large number of people who have migrated to the region from urban areas in recent years, careful resource management has maintained the natural integrity of the area, and at the same time made it possible for record numbers of people to enjoy it.

Chain 'O Lakes State Park provides a good overview of how that delicate balancing act

College of Lake County names Naff president

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

After a nearly year-long search, the College of Lake County Board of Trustees have appointed Interim President Gretchen J. Naff of Buffalo Grove, to the permanent position of president of the College.

The board met May 6, to consider three final candidates for a vote. Unable to reach consensus on any of the three finalists, the board opted to conclude the search and appoint Naff as president.

"After an in-depth discussion, the board agreed it was in the best interest of the college to conclude the search process and appoint Dr. Naff to the presidency," said James Lumber, board chairperson. "We don't feel that our national search failed, rather we feel that after interviewing the best in the field, Dr. Naff, is the right person to lead us into the future."

Naff was not considered a candidate during the interviewing process because the board had felt that having an interim president to compete with others for the permanent position, can lead to an awkward situation.

"We have always chosen our interim presidents from the vice president position," said Lumber. "Considering the individual would return to the vice president position if not chosen for the president's job it could be very awkward."

The decision by the board was unanimous. "Dr. Naff is someone who didn't approach her term as interim president as a caretaker," said Lumber. "She acted as the president of the college and worked to move the college forward. We are confident she is the person that will keep us on a good course and move us on to an incline." Lumber also said Naff is very popular with the college faculty and staff.

"I am honored to have this opportunity," Naff said. "CLC has become an outstanding institution thanks to the fine contributions of college staff, support from the community and the leadership of the board of trustees and the previous presidents. I look forward to leading the college through its next stage of development."

Lumber estimated the national search cost between $40,000 and $50,000. "We are a $40 million to $75 million institute, we felt spending this amount of money on a national search was in the best interest of the college. We wanted to ensure the college would be led by the highest quality individual," Lumber said.

The three candidates considered finalists for the position were: Dr. Jerry Moskus, president of Lane Community College in Eugene, Oregon; Dr. Neal Raisman, president of Rockland Community College in Cincinnati; Barbara

Gretchen J. Naff

Adams, president of Long Beach City College.

Naff was appointed interim president last summer after the departure of former president Daniel J. LaVista, Ph.D. She served as vice president for educational affairs at CLC from 1990 to 1995.

'Cat' teams respond to natural disasters

New insurance company concept brings quicker results

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

At one house, a crew of construction workers were busy repairing a roof destroyed by last month's tornado that ripped through northern Lake County in Zion.

Next door, debris from the apartment building across the street still sits idle, splitting the roof and the home down the middle.

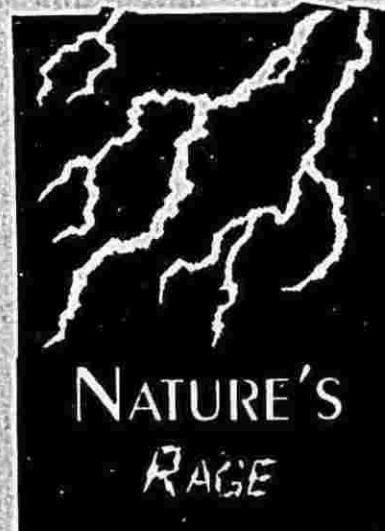

The same tornado destroyed both homes, but one home is in the process of being repaired.

The difference: Dennis Kildew and his wife are benefiting from the newly inaugurated "National Catastrophe Team" employed by State Farm Insurance.

Quite literally, the National Catastrophe Team is a team of insurance claims adjusters trained to respond to natural disasters like tornadoes, earthquakes and hurricanes at a moment's notice.

Late Friday April 19, the tornado in Zion ripped the roof off an apartment building and sent it flying into a row of homes across the street. By Saturday, State Farm Insurance Agent Bob Bordignon was at the Kildew's home assisting them with coverage of their destroyed roof and home. By Monday, Steve Kuehl of State Farm's National Catastrophe Team was on the scene estimating the damages. By week's end, a contractor was on the roof pounding nails.

In the meantime, nobody had even visited the destroyed home next door (which was insured by another company). It still remains condemned by the City of Zion.

Parents accused of sexually abusing own children

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Lake County officials are calling it the worst case of sexual abuse in county history.

An Antioch Township father and mother are accused and charged with repeatedly forcing sex upon their children and between their children on more occasions than even prosecutors wish to count.

The victims were the couple's very own flesh and blood: a 9-year-old boy and an 11-year-old girl whose names have been withheld.

In all, George Hindson, 46, and Edna Hindson, 46, of unincorporated Antioch Township were charged with 43 counts of predatory criminal sexual assault, two counts of aggravated criminal sexual assault, and one count of aggravated battery for forcing the girl to drink urine.

In essence, predatory criminal sexual assault is forced penetration by an adult upon a person under 13. Authorities said the Hindsons had sex with their children and forced their children to have sex with each other.

"It ranks up there as the worst case in Lake County history in terms of an abusive situation," said Lieutenant Richard Eckenstahler of the Lake County Sheriff's Office.

"They're all bad, but with this one people just shake when they hear about this case, especially with all the acts," said Eckenstahler, who admitted difficulty in speaking about the case.

He noted that investigators and prosecutors could have added more counts of predatory criminal sexual assault. Out of disgust, they stopped piling up more charges.

"They victimized their own children," Eckenstahler said. "There were different types of sexual activity—all of which were inappropriate."

For Mike Mermel, chief of felony review for the Lake County states attorney's office, it was the worst case he has ever confronted as a prosecutor.

"This is the worst I've seen in 20 years of prosecuting cases," said Mermel, who was a prosecutor in Cook County before coming to Lake County.

Mermel said authorities were alerted to the accusations after the children shared the information with therapists.

Mermel said George Hindson was serving a probationary sentence for similar acts in Oswego in Kane County. As a result, Edna Hindson moved to unincorporated Antioch a year ago, and the children were attending counseling for the previous offense.

Hindson, however, visited Antioch, and the 46 new offenses are believed to have occurred from July 25 to Sept. 15, 1995.

The children told counselors who then forwarded the accusations to the proper authorities.

"The children told us it happened. There was physical evidence of sexual abuse, and the mother made a statement to us," Mermel said. The children have been remanded to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

Investigators Leonard Brezinski and Mike Leusch of the Lake County Sheriff's Department's Children's Advocacy Center analyzed the case. The sole function of the Children's Advocacy Center is to investigate cases of sexual abuse against children.

The Hindsons' bond was set at $1 million each. They were remanded to the Lake County Jail and arraigned Wednesday in front of Judge Raymond McKoski.

Authorities offer signs of child sexual abuse

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

In light of what authorities are calling Lake County's most repulsive case of sexual abuse against children, authorities warn that such incidents do occur and parents should be aware.

Lake County prosecutors have charged George and Edna Hindson of unincorporated Antioch with 43 counts of predatory criminal sexual assault, two counts of aggravated criminal sexual abuse and one count of aggravated battery.

"You don't want to victimize the children any further by sensationalizing this," said Lieutenant Richard Eckenstahler of the Lake County Sheriff's Office. "You want to downplay this for the sake of the kids, but it's certainly something the public needs to be aware of that there are people out there like this, so people can take safeguards."

Eckenstahler encourages people to call the authorities if they suspect children are being abused, even if the call is anonymous. "Call and give us the information. Leave it up to us to investigate," he said.

In terms of simple prevention, Eckenstahler advises parents to be aware of what their children are doing and who they are associated with.

The Gurnee-based Lake County Against Sexual Assault (LaCASA) organization offers counseling, training, and outreach programs.

Joanie Dovekas of LaCASA said parents need to be aware of Scout leaders, coaches and teachers, while, at the same time, Scout leaders, coaches and teachers need to be aware of parents. "Some kids will tell other parents and not their parents," she said.

Some emotional indicators of possible child sexual abuse include poor self image, sense of worthlessness, feelings of loneliness, depression, suicidal thoughts, lack of trust of adults, and detached from others.

Some sexual behavior that could be a sign of child sexual abuse include promiscuous sexual behavior, fear of intimate verbal and physical contact, sexualized affection, an explicit knowledge of sexual terms for an inappropriate age, and repeated sexual assault victims.

Some physical signs include venereal disease, early pregnancy or abortion, unexplained genital or anal pain, stained or bloody underwear, irregular menstrual cycle, and chronic headaches, stomach and throat problems.

The LaCASA hotline is 872-7799.

has worked and worked well.

Within the park's 6,063 acres are woodlands, prairie, wetlands and lakes. From the glacier-carved bluffs to the soggy bogs, the park is nothing if not topographical diverse. These symbiotic ecosystems harbor a wide array of wildlife and plant life, and despite the development of the land for recreational use, the park is still a natural wonder.

"The regional site planner is generally responsible for the overall plan to develop the park and build roads, to come up with an overall scheme," said Eric Rodiek, superintendent of Chain 'O Lakes State Park. "We have a task force of people, including a district wildlife biologist, a fisheries biologist, a natural heritage biologist, law enforcement people, a regional site planner, a regional engineer, and myself, who meet to shake out what's going to work as far as programs."

This brain trust has the responsibility of developing the park's recreational appeal without destroying what it took millenniums for nature to build. They've done an admirable job so far — while people can camp, fish, ride horses and hike (among many other options), the natural habitat remains relatively pristine. This is with between 1.25 and 1.5 million people visiting the park annually.

"We try to put preservation above people use. You don't want to develop to the point where you have too many people. We try to keep it as natural as we can," said Rodiek. "But some people think, like with the national parks, that you should just have one parking lot and have bus tours or just let people hike, and that's the only way they should go into any of these parks. That would eliminate a lot of people using the parks, and we want people to come and enjoy."

The park borders three lakes in the chain (Nippersink, Grass and Marie) and holds two other small lakes (Turner and Mud). This makes the park a prime spot for fishermen and boaters. The lakes also harbor a wide variety of water fowl, making it a Mecca for bird watchers. The orientation of the park is toward water-based recreation, but there is plenty for the landlubber to do here as well.

Summer activities include camping and picnicking, or riding on the eight miles of horse trails (horse rentals are available at the park). Hikers and bikers have their own trails, over five miles worth. Bike and canoe rentals are also available.

But the recreation doesn't stop when the snow flies. During the winter months, cross country skiers take over the biking/hiking trails. Hunters and ice fishermen find the park a haven for their activities (though the hunting is strictly regulated), and winter campers are common.

One person who regularly enjoys the park is Michael Simons of Johnsburg.

"I'm from Colorado originally, and a lot of people think that's the place to be if you're a nature lover," said Simons. "When I first came to the lakes region here, though, I thought it was just gorgeous, not only in the park, but throughout the chain. It's amazing they've been able to keep the area so nice with so many people living in the area and more moving here every year. This is one of the nicest state parks I've ever been to."

The animals think so, too. The park harbors raccoon, deer, opossum, fox, weasels, mink, coyote, even the occasional badger, among others. As for the feathered fauna, the park is home to nearly 200 different species of birds, though it will take a patient and determined bird watcher to catch sight of the rare bald eagle or osprey.

Marlee Cryzsewski is one of those bird watchers. Her address is a rural area near Antioch, but she says "I practically live in the park on summer weekends."

"The variety of birds in the area is wonderful," said Cryzsewski. "I've noted about 180 between the park and other places on the lakes I've gone. Some of these species are very delicate, and the slightest change in the environment can kill them or make them move elsewhere. I think it's a good sign of how well the area is managed that there are so many different bird species that live here."

For those that live in the Chain 'O Lakes area but haven't taken the opportunity to enjoy the natural beauty, Chain 'O Lakes State Park is a great place to start. For more information on the park and its programs, call (847) 587-5512.

Editor's note: In the next two weeks, this series will talk about conservation efforts throughout the Chain 'O Lakes, and explore the variety of recreational opportunities available.

'Cat'

"We travel across the country—that's our job," Kuehl said. "We travel to a storm site and stay there until the job is done."

Kuehl is one of 400 claims representatives who will travel in five-man teams to storm-ridden sites of the country for State Farm Insurance. The National Catastrophe Team officially became a service arm of State Farm in March.

They're the ones who quickly estimate the damages of the home, negotiate repair costs with local contractors and oversee the repairs until the final nail is pounded.

In many cases, a home insured by State Farm Insurance with its National Catastrophe Team at work is completely repaired before a home insured by another company can agree on an estimate by independent estimators.

"We're specialized in that we know how to handle natural disaster-like losses," Kuehl said. "Sometimes, it can take up to a month to figure out costs. It took me two days here. We're trained to be able to come out to estimate the full scope of damages."

The homeowner also benefits, Kuehl said, by only having to deal with one estimator, not several independent estimators.

Kuehl, however, praises the efforts of the local agents for responding to the immediate needs of the homeowner.

Bordignon, for example, was at the site the following morning after the tornado struck and handed the Kildews a $4,000 check for immediate living expenses.

"Basically, we gave them some money so they can get to the store to buy clothes and get a room," Bordignon said.

Less than a week later, Kuehl was approving $61,000 worth of repairs to the home.

"The agents are the ones on the front lines. They put the fires out by going over the coverage issues on the policy. I estimate and work with the contractor to determine the cost of repairs," Kuehl said.

Bill Epperly, field representative for State Farm out of Vernon Hills, said his office ordered the need for a "Cat" office. Less than two days later, an office was fully equipped and operational in Zion with 12 adjusters from the National Catastrophe Teams on hand scoping the wreckage in Zion for State Farm policy holders.

"In my 28 years, I haven't seen anything work as fast as this," Epperly noted. "In a week, State Farm gave the Kildews $61,000 to repair their home."

While the Kildews are receiving massive repairs, they only paid a $250 deductible in addition to their annual premium.

Epperly advises homeowners to review their policies every two years and understand the coverages.

"One night at 11:45 p.m. your life changes, and you better hope you have the right coverage," Bordignon noted.

In this age of instant gratification and instant relief, Kuehl said National Catastrophe Teams trained to estimate and negotiate damages quickly will be the wave of the future.

"If you can save money by being able to estimate yourself, it keeps the premiums down," Kuehl pointed out. "We get to a site as fast as we can. We're striving for customer service."

Although Kuehl will remain in Zion until all the repairs are completed to the homes insured by State Farm, he will keep his eye on the Weather Channel for the next natural disaster to strike.

Carnival comes to town

ISLAND LAKE—There will be fun and more fun in Tower Park this weekend. The Island Lake Chamber of Commerce is having its annual Spring Carnival through May 12. Food and games will abound, and there will be live entertainment for the entire family. The park is located west of town on route 176. Hours are 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. through Friday, and noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. For more information, call the Chamber at (847) 487-4522.—BY TINA L. SWIECH

Pappas to run for mayor

FOX LAKE—Village Trustee Jim Pappas made a formal announcement he is running for mayor in 1997. The trustee said he waited to announce he's going to be on the ballot, until after appointments for committees were made at the village board meeting Monday night.

Pappas was chosen to head the bureau of inspection/zoning board of appeals committee as well as the community center and youth committees. Pappas has been an outspoken official, with a great deal of resident support. There is no word yet whether Mayor Ken Hamsher will seek reelection.

Also, Dr. William Dam, a former Fox Lake mayor, is seriously considering vying for the seat once again.—BY TINA L. SWIECH

Resident questions planning

GURNEE—The planning of Route 21 debate in Gurnee continued with a heated discussion between a resident and village officials.

Resident Tom Chamberlain questioned when and why the Gurnee Village Board got involved in the process. Also at issue was whether or not the area should be termed the "opportunity corridor" or the "entertainment corridor". The area is under review as part of the village's regular five year comprehensive plan review.

"I asked them (the village planners) to discuss those issues with the plan commission and the zoning board," Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said.

Chamberlain questioned why the village board got involved after the plan commission, a recommending body, had several meetings and only one trustee attended.

The next village board/plan commission workshop session is May 22. —STEVE PETERSON

Alderman questions repair bill

PARK CITY—Park City officials are questioning repair billing practices and an issue of possible trespass by a mobile home park owner.

Ald. Steven Pannell brought to other council members' attention the case involving a $28 water meter bill allegedly charged to the resident by the park management at Park City Mobile Home, Inc.

"They repaired a piston in the water meter. The meter belongs to the owner of the park. I will see if we can get it straightened out," Mayor Rob Allen said.

Pannell said the resident was not informed of the repair in advance. He had a similar thing happen to him.—STEVE PETERSON

Company makes Chinese link

WAUCONDA—An automation company formed six years ago is going international. Northlakes Automotive is building a machine that will assemble a piece of equipment for use in the operation of an automotive horn for a company in Shanghai, China. The country is just starting to go "high tech" and Al Keefer, Northlake president, said he feels as if they are getting in on the ground floor.

"It is clear to us we are breaking ground," Keefer said. The company has 30 employees and builds machines used by companies all across the country for the manufacture and assembly of brand name companies.

Northlake has built machines to assemble car door mechanisms, computer components and a vision system to verify correct bottle cap assembly.

Keefer and his associates traveled to the Orient earlier this year to complete the deal. Executives from the China company will travel to Wauconda later this year for training.—BY SPENCER SCHEIN

Students may face hefty fines

LAKE ZURICH—A post-prom party not sanctioned by Lake Zurich High School ended with the arrests of approximately 60 students in rural Kendall County. A fight broke out between students of LZHS and West Aurora High School May 5 at 1:20 a.m. after a racial slur was said by someone from Lake Zurich, according to Terry Tichava, chief deputy and director of operations for the Kendall County Sheriff's office.

The students are facing charges for illegal consumption, and will appear in Kendall County Court for hearings scheduled to start later this month, Tichava said.

If convicted, they could face a maximum fine of $500, up to 30 days in jail or both.

Seven kegs of beer were confiscated from both groups of students at the Hide-A-Way Lakes Campgrounds near Yorkville, along with bottles and cans of beer, wine and liquor, police said.

Approximately 25 LZHS students have hired the services of a Chicago attorney, who has reported the students are innocent.

Tichava said more than 200 people were on the campgrounds, and 104 were arrested, all who either admitted to have consumed alcohol or tested positive for alcohol.

Restaurant staff speaks out

MUNDELEIN—The staff of Tops Restaurant has lent its support to efforts of the owners to obtain a liquor license from the village. After a hearing on the matter last month, the liquor commission "decided not to increase the number of liquor licenses in the village, according to Mayor Marilyn Sindles.

The employees have been picketing at the restaurant on the corner of Rtes. 45 and 176, and took their protest to the May 6 board meeting, where they presented a petition asking the village to reconsider the decision.

John Christofalos, the father of official owner Andrew Christofalos, threatened to close the restaurant if a license was not granted. Such an action would cause the employees to lose their jobs, hostess Kathy Fox told the board.—BY SUZIE REED

School addition stalled

GRAYSLAKE—Grayslake Elementary District 46 announced an alternate financing bond plan in March, to construct a $3.1 million addition to their middle school. As soon as the plan was announced it was challenged by petitioners who wanted to force the issue to a vote.

The electoral board, composed of the school board president, school secretary and one board member, invalidated the challenge for several reasons—among them were 60 signatures collected by a petitioner registered to vote through her place of business. The electoral board ruled under their interpretation of the Ill. voter laws this meant she was not legally registered to vote.

Now the petitioners are challenging the matter regarding the woman's voter registration in circuit court.

If the petitions containing the 60 signatures weren't invalidated the petitioners would have been successful in their mission.

The district is proceeding with a partial construction plan funded through developer donations and hopes to construct the entire project through an alternate bid process if they are allowed to issue the bonds.—BY ELIZABETH EAKEN

Charges stem from fire

VERNON HILLS—Following a deadly fire at a Vernon Hills condominium which claimed the lives of two young children, Vernon Hills Police charged the children's uncle with failure to install or maintain a smoke detector in an occupied dwelling.

The owner David Gonzalez, 23, of Vernon Hills, surrendered to police and will appear in Waukegan court May 15. Vernon Hills Police Chief Gary Kupsak said, "This is one of the most difficult cases to charge an individual, especially when the offender is a relative. However, it is imperative that all owners, tenants and residents realize the law is specific that smoke detectors in operating condition are required."

An investigation showed that the fire originated in a stove, and the residence did not contain a smoke detector.—BY KEVIN HANRAHAN

Police gain bike patrol

ANTIOCH—The Antioch Police Department became the latest police department to initiate a bike patrol. Thanks to a federal grant funded through President Clinton's COPS program, the Antioch Police Department will employ a single bike officer to patrol the downtown district, parks and various residential subdivisions.

Deputy Chief Charles Watkins said the intent of the bike patrol is to expand the department's community-policing program. "He'll be trying to deter crime, set up relationships, establish friendships, and try to be a help in the community," Watkins said.

Plans split on development

LAKE VILLA—Plan Commissioners voted 4-3 to recommend the concept plan for a 290-unit subdivision east of Rte. 83 about a mile south of Grand Avenue. The plan included 71 townhouses. Some commissioners objected to townhouses because they felt they weren't needed.

Originally, Deep Lake Road was intended to be extended to Rte. 83, according to Commissioner Craig Kressner. Kressner said the subdivision doesn't need the townhouses if the road doesn't go through. Commissioner Glenn McCollum said he voted for the plan because it doesn't allow the road through.

He said the village shouldn't want the the Deep Lake extension because he feels it would divert traffic from Grand and Rte. 83, which he hopes will eventually be a prime intersection for business.—BY ALEC JUNG

Teen arrested on gun charges

HAINESVILLE—A Hainesville teen was arrested by Round Lake Park officers in connection with shootings which took place in Park City. Olivia Zepchi, 17, 366 Deer Lane, was arrested on May 3 for a warrant.

She was charged with unlawful use of a weapon, and mob action for gun related incidents in Park City. Hainesville requested Round Lake Park officers make the arrest, according to Round Lake Park Police Chief Bruce Johnson. Further information was obtained to make this arrest through the Round Lake Gang Task Force, group comprised of five Round Lake area communities.—STAFF REPORT

Provider tax may be reduced

WAUKEGAN—Saint Therese Medical Center and Victory Memorial Hospital are lauding Gov. Jim Edgar's proposed state budget which indicates an increase in federal funds for the Illinois Medicaid program. Edgar says he will use the additional federal money to reduce the hospital provider tax that has burdened hospitals for the past four years.

The two hospitals paid a combined total of $11.7 million in state taxes to make up for the inadequate funding in 1995, according to hospital presidents Timothy J. Harrington of Victory Memorial Hospital and Timothy P. Selz of Saint Therese Medical Center.

The final decision on reducing the provider tax now goes to the General Assembly for vote.—STAFF REPORT

A changing face now way of life

No Lake County community has gone through as many transformations as Gurnee. Faced with an overhaul of identity, a hew and cry from a major portion of the populace would be a typical reaction in neighboring communities. Not in Gurnee, where the populace thrives on change.

Now, Gurnee's architect of change for more than two decades, Mayor Dick Welton, envisions his village as the anchor for "an amusement corridor," extensive development of vacant land fronting the Tri-State Tollway from Rte. 120 to the Wisconsin stateline catering to tourists.

Welton sees the area becoming home for a convention-hotel complex and an array of tourist attractions similar to the Wisconsin Dells, minus the sea of tacky overhead signs and neon lights.

After established as a rail point on Milwaukee Road trackage linking Chicago and Milwaukee before the turn of the century, Gurnee enjoyed an easy life as Waukegan's bedroom for nearly 50 years. Twenty years ago Great America amusement park burst on the scene for a major change of identity. Ten years ago Gurnee Mills triggered another look.

A periodic facelifting now has become a way of life, giving Gurnee a distinctive quality and title as Lake County's poster picture of change.

High-stepping society changes image of mom

MIL MISIC

Mother's Day. This holiday conjures up poignancy second, perhaps, only to Christmas Day.

A mother who had many children was once asked which one she loved the most. She replied, "The one that's sick until he's well and the one that's away until he's home again."

I grew up feeling that I could always count on my mother's love and support. And she was always proud of me, no matter how small the accomplishment.

The image of today's mothers is far different from those of yesterday. Today we read about child abuse and neglect as well as children born drug addicted—subjects which, I'm sure, my mother never heard of.

When those of us in the autumn of our lives think of our mothers, we picture a kindly, maternal woman. She may be hunched over some sewing or knitting. Maybe she is in the kitchen, kneading dough for some homemade bread and rolls. No modern bread-making machine for her. She is probably wearing an old-fashioned bib apron over a house dress. I never saw my mother in a pair of slacks.

Mothers of people in my generation were not very concerned about physical fitness. Their daily routine kept them active with the mundane tasks of household chores.

My mother never swung a tennis racquet in her life. She would have been too tired from swinging a wire rug beater against the rugs hanging on the outdoor clothesline during spring and fall house cleaning. Instead of a golf club, she was grasping a broom handle sweeping floors, the front porch and sidewalk.

She didn't need Jane Fonda's exercise videos for aerobic workouts. Scrubbing floors and hanging the laundry on the clothesline outside gave her plenty of stretching and bending exercise.

Jogging? In her later years, she had difficulty even walking because of the arthritis that afflicted her.

I can still picture my mother writing to her three sons in the service in the 1940s during WWII. Her hands are beginning to show the crippling brought on by arthritis as she struggles to keep her handwriting legible.

Her brown hair is turning gray as the war continues and her worries increase. The thought of coloring it never enters her mind.

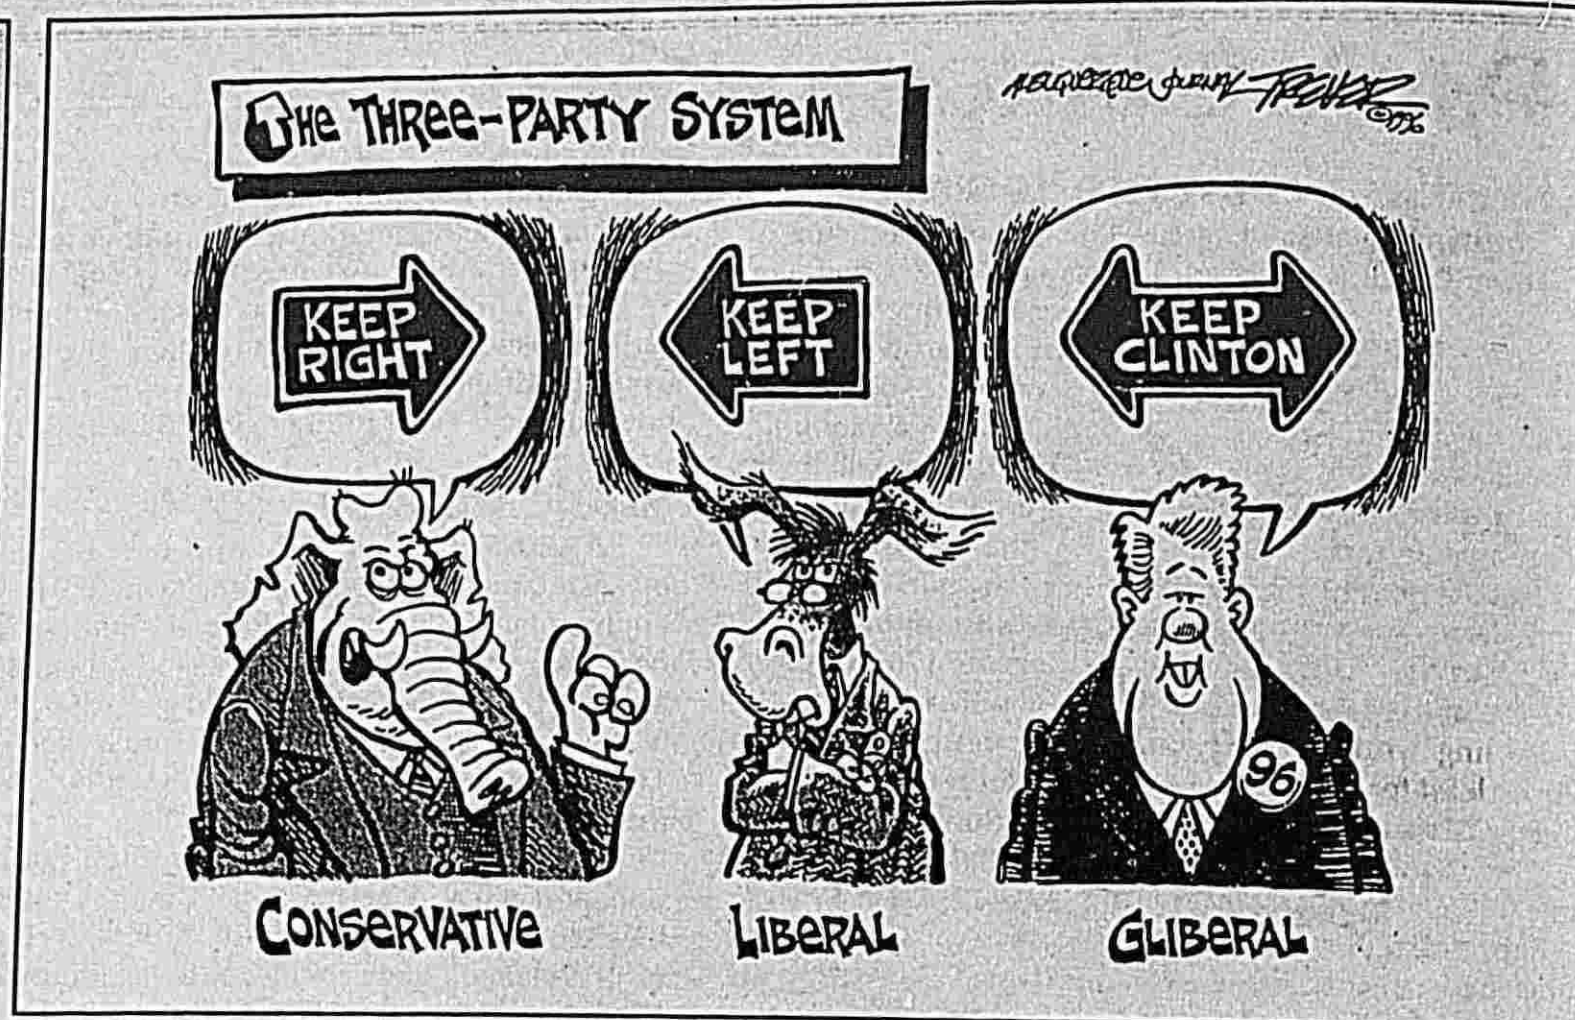

Yet, when I remember her, I recall how she rarely complained. She usually hummed to herself as she went about her daily chores. Women of her day were happy with far less than today's women. There was no television with which to tantalize her and reveal all that she could be and could own if she left her hearth and home and found employment in the world outside.

When we asked her what she wanted for Mother's Day, she always replied, "I don't need anything. Just be good."

Now I have an adult son and daughter of my own. They will probably remember me in many different ways. The one thing I still have in common with my late mother is that I make bread and rolls the old-fashioned way as she did. But my household tasks are much easier thanks to modern technology and equipment.

As youngsters, they believed me when I said I was 29, and thought I was a natural blond. Maybe that makes me a liar and a cheat, but at some point in their lives they realized it wasn't true and the truth came to them much like the fact that there was no Santa Claus or Easter Bunny.

But some things about mothers do not change. Now, when they ask See COMMENTARY page B5

BILL SCHROEDER

America's obsession with diversity is providing Congressman John Porter, the moderate North Shore Republican who represents the eastern half of Lake County, with the impetus to push for repeal of the bilingual ballot requirement of the Voting Rights Act.

Porter recognizes that U.S. society is fragmenting by dividing into minority language groups.

"Rather than pull all Americans together under the use of a common language, we have promoted our separation into distinct ethnic groups under very ill-conceived amendments to the Voting Rights Act," the distinguished lawmaker testified before the House Judiciary's Committee's Subcommittee on the Constitution.

The veteran Republican was testifying in support of H.R. 351, bilingual ballot repeal legislation of a law enacted in 1975.

Porter once again is displaying his willingness to face up to a controversial issue, albeit an unpopular stand, but the right thing to do.

"This law directly contradicts the value of our shared language and the responsibilities imposed on anyone seeking American citizenship," Porter stated.

Porter believes multi-language ballots are a cockeyed response to failures of the U.S. immigration and education systems to enable immigrants to exercise their rights of citizenship.

Congressman Porter is right on target when he says bilingual voting assistance encourages individuals to remain outside the mainstream of American society.

The stance taken by the long-time lawmaker also offered eloquent support for the argument that English should be the official language of the United States. "Persons who do not speak English face impediments to success," Porter told the subcommittee. Non-English speaking citizens are harmed when the nation reduces the pressure to learn English or gives the impression that the government does not consider English to be important, he declared.

As of Tuesday, the bill remained in committee.

BIG DROP—Sales of Hawthorn Woods luxury homes in the path of the proposed Rte. 53 tollway extension reportedly are $40,000 to $100,000 below market value. Real estate brokers see current sales as the tip of the iceberg in a sell-off cycle.

Hawthorn Woods was the site of a speech last winter by John Walliser, who has filed a federal lawsuit to block tollway officials from taking more property in the path of the proposed I-355 extension north of Joliet.

Outcome of the suit will have big impact on the legality of the estimated 40 percent of right-of-way already acquired by the tollway authority. Walliser resides in Lockport.

SECOND SENATOR—If State Rep. Al Salvi is elected U.S. Senator this fall, he will be the second Carmel High graduate to attain that office.

The first Carmel grad in the U.S. Senate is Sen. Rick Santorum (R-Pennsylvania). Santorum is a 1976 graduate of the Mundelein school, attending only his senior year when his parents, Veterans Adm. Hospital careerists, were transferred to Illinois. Santorum entered Penn State in the fall.

Like his fellow Carmel alum, Santorum is a conservative Republican. Salvi said the Pennsylvania solon encouraged him to run and has been helpful in the campaign. Santorum was in Chicago Tuesday to address a Salvi fundraiser.

NEW STATUS?—Dept. of Defense officials reportedly are reviewing the command billeting status of Great Lakes Naval Training Center. As the Navy's largest training center, the base is in line for two star command designation. There might be a coincidence between the consideration and the fact that Rear Adm. Patricia Tracey is in line for a promotion. Then again there might not be a tie. The Great Lakes CO faces reassignment when she dons another star—unless the base is reclassified.

TAKING NAMES—Registrations now are being accepted for the 4th Annual Joe Marconi Memorial Pro-Am "Strikes Against Leukemia" Bowling Tournament Saturday, Aug. 10, at Hawthorn Lanes. This newspaper once again is honored to be a co-sponsor.

The day-long event provides bowlers of all skill levels to compete with celebrity sportscasters, Chicago Bear alumni and professional bowlers. Mike Ditka, honorary chairman, is due for an appearance.

The tourney honors the late Marconi, a running back with the 1963 title Bears, who died four years ago after a battle with leukemia. Call the Leukemia Foundation at 847-982-1480 for an entry form or more information.

-PARTY LINES-

Stolman's stock rising in chairman sweepstakes

Almost daily, County Board members and prospective electees count noses in the campaign for chairman.

Regular Republicans and Independent Republicans are split at nine each, giving weight to the theory that the odds favor election of a GOP stalwart.

Dealing with the Democratic bloc is dim, at least for Independent Republicans. As Rep. Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) put it, "We burned too many bridges last time."

Rep. John Schullen (R-Libertyville) squelched speculation that pro-growth, Depke led hold-over Republicans might throw their weight behind Rep. Bob Buhai (D-Highland Park). "No way am I going to vote for a Democrat," asserted Schullen, who also is party head of Lake County Republicans.

Just about every board member sooner or later mentions party-hopping Rep. David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove) as a significant player in the chairman sweepstakes. As one board member noted, "Stolman's always in the wings." Stolman, an attorney, was elected as a Democrat four years ago, and then switched positions.

Adding credence to a Republican chairman is the popularity of Rep. Debbie Halas (D-Waukegan). Almost everyone would like to see Halas retain her vice chair position. This arrangement is known as "balancing."

Water burst—Gurnee Mayor Dick

Welton's recent angry outburst over a couple's inquiry about village water service fueled speculation that he might be preparing to retire next year. As one Gurnee political observer remarked, "You Halas don't mistreat the voters if you're running for re-election." Either that or the fact that the Lake County Water Dist. supplying Gurnee is near and dear to the heart of the mayor. Welton helped found the district.

Big difference—Funny how victory changes the face of politics. Friday night, Al Salvi was accorded a place of honor at a big Republican shindig at Marriott's Lincolnshire. Last September the Lake County Republican Federation totally stiffed Salvi at the annual meeting in Libertyville; Salvi had to place signs on the lawn at the Princess Restaurant to get his name mentioned.

Date changed—Because of a conflict with McHenry County, Lake County Republicans have changed the date of their annual golf outing to July 24.

Take the old stuff out—Lake Villa Mayor Frank Loffredo suggested Plan Commission Chairman William Smolarchuk and the commission look at eliminating some of the older codes. "You mean get rid of the blacksmith shop," Smolarchuk quipped. Guess it is time to update the books.

Fast start—Jon McKendry, newly elected third vice president of the Lake County Republican Central Committee, is off to a fast start. The day after getting elected, McKendry met with a group of Fox Lake-Ingleside Republicans. McKendry is a Shields Township precinct committeeman and a resident of Lake Bluff.

Playing the game—Republican partisans are crying "cheap shot" over charges by State Rep. Jeffrey Schoenberg (D-Skokie) that County Board Chairman Bob Depke used inside influence to acquire a no-bid lease for an office in a Gurnee building he and his wife, GeorgeAnne, own.

Schoenberg, ranking Democrat on the House General Services Appropriations Committee, is using the Depke deal to open up an inquiry by Central Management Services officials about no-bid leasing practices. Considered a legal document, the lease was worth $40,700. "It's still political cronyism," the influential Democrat retorted.

Vanderventer hosts kick-off—Mary Ellen Vanderventer, Democratic candidate for Lake County Recorder of Deeds will host the first in a series of campaign fund-raisers May 16 from 5:30-8 p.m. at Ustabee's Pub and Grill, Route 21 just north of HeatherRidge in Gurnee.

Rejecting raises—Lake County Democrat Lauren Beth Gash (R-60) has sponsored a resolution to reject a new proposal to raise salaries for legislators, elected officials and agency directors.

"I am sponsoring this resolution to reject a pay increase because it is simply wrong and frankly, unbelievable, for government officials to give themselves a pay raise when the public wants to cut the cost of government." Gash, a relative newcomer to the state house, has been a vocal bipartisan opponent of government waste.

Clerk thanked—Lindenhurst Mayor Paul Baumunk congratulated Village Clerk Marilyn Gregorin for her dedicated service in honor of Municipal Clerks Week. "You have done a fine job since you have been with us. Thank you for being here," Baumunk said.

Congressional cost-cutters—In its annual "Tough Choices Congressional Scorecard" the bipartisan Concord Coalition has said Congressman John Porter (R-10th) leads the Illinois delegation and the overall Congress in voting to reduce federal deficits and wasteful spending. The study ranks all 535 members of Congress according to their 1995 voting record. Meanwhile, Congressman Phil Crane (R-8th) has been awarded two honors—"Taxpayers' Friend" by National Taxpayers Union (NTU) and "Taxpayers' Hero" by the Council for Citizens Against Government Waste (CCAGW).

Running again—Add Supervisor Gordon Kiesgen of Grant Township to the growing list of township supervisors who want to retain their jobs. "I'm running in 1997," vowed Kiesgen, who has been in township politics for more than 30 years.

Law hurts defenseless

Editor:
We have a new type of criminal in Lake County. He is young, perhaps lacking in judgment, and inexperienced in life, but otherwise totally harmless. He does not sell drugs, shoot people or steal from them. Police and prosecutors had better do something to address this new threat, and fast.

Let us forget about violent gang members, drug dealers, murderers and sex offenders. We must act to punish those who—forget to connect their smoke detectors.

We have lost our common sense as a people. David Gonzales, in an apparent oversight, forgot to reconnect his smoke detector. Such an act, while clearly negligent, does not rise to the level of criminal conduct. Vernon Hills should not waste valuable law enforcement resources to prosecute an individual who does not pose a threat to his community.

This prosecution adds injury to the pain that Gonzales must feel over the loss of his nephews. There is no guarantee that those lives could have been saved by the smoke detector.

Senator responds

Editor:
This is in response to an article titled "School, Legislator clash over help—" In the article, Dr. Mary Davis made a comment about Senator Peterson insinuating that he "is far too busy with his richer districts to the south—."

Well, Dr. Davis, I want to stand up and say that Senator Peterson and his Executive Assistant Jan Zobus, have both worked hard and long to help us with a drainage problem we are having, and to insist that the local county agencies do their assigned jobs—not just pass the buck, and, yes, it is true, we have a Round Lake address (although we are not in the Round Lake school district.)

Both Peterson and Zobus have been to our house to assess our problem. They have seen, I am sure, that we are a family of modest means living in a very unpretentious house. I have never felt slighted or demeaned. Senator Peterson has always been totally accessible, and has always listened with concern and compassion. He has always helped us as much as possible. During our whole drainage problem, Peterson has been the reason that I have faith that with caring people elected to office, our government can work.

School failed to act

Editor:
A recently published letter to the editor written by Jack Cervac, concerning land donations for School Dist. 128 for the Gregg's Landing development on the Cuneo property, is totally erroneous.

While one man's ignorance of the facts is of little consequence, the record should be set straight for those who may have been misled by Mr. Cervac's letter. Mr. Cervac stated, "No provisions were ever made or considered by Vernon Hills village board trustees for land donation for a school site." That statement is completely false.

The Vernon Hills village board, as part of the Cuneo annexation agreement negotiations, provided for 50 acres of land to be set aside for a second campus, with terms very favorable to Dist. 128. Part of the land would have been donated, and part of the land was to be purchased for a price contemplated to be not more than $40,000 an acre. Dist. 128 could have paid for the land over a five year period. The offer was made in 1988, and was held open to Dist. 128 for a period of two years. However, the school board failed to take advantage of this opportunity. In similar fashion, the school board did not pursue land reserved at the request of the Vernon Hills village board on the Ranney property.

Mr. Cervac's statement that the developer should be forced to build a new school to accommodate 40 percent of the existing enrollment of the students attending Dist. 128 demonstrates a complete ignorance of land use law. Gregg's Landing is expected to generate 258 high school students. Courts have consistently ruled that developer exactions must be limited to the impact of their specific development and cannot be forced to compensate for already existing deficiencies.

Notwithstanding, the existing space deficiency for which the Village of Vernon Hills, on its own, is neither empowered to remedy nor responsible for, the Gregg's Landing project by any responsible account shall be a positive contribution to the region and Dist. 128. Almost half the land is set aside for open space, without a single cent of tax revenue used for its acquisition. The school impact fees negotiated by the Vernon Hills village board exceed any legally defensible exactions collected to date in the region. Even more important than a one-time donation, the annual tax revenues from the project at buildout are projected to exceed service costs for all public entities by more than $5 million. The annual excess revenue for Dist. 128 alone is projected to exceed $700,000.

While the Vernon Hills village board shares Mr. Cervac's frustration that the needs of both Dist. 128 and Cook Memorial Library be resolved, to portray the Village of Vernon Hills as the source of the problem is disingenuous at best. Vernon Hills has been, and continues to be, active in the pursuit of pragmatic solutions to regional concerns. We look forward to working with Dist. 128, the Cook Memorial Library Dist. and all other participants in this ongoing effort.

Program offers resources for Alzheimer's

SUZIE REED

Staff Reporter

Learning to live with a diagnosis of Alzheimer's Disease can be just as frightening for family members as it is for the patient. The Greater Chicagoland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association seeks to provide resource information and support for victims as well as caregivers.

"They cover all of Lake, DuPage, Cook and Kane counties," said Michelle Rappin, public relations contact for the association. "They try to be accessible to everyone; they have support groups in each area."

The association presents programs at various locations, always with different speakers on different topics, said Rappin.

Condell Medical Center, 900 Garfield Ave. in Libertyville, will host a program entitled "What is Alzheimer's Disease?" from 7 to 9 p.m. May 14. Speakers will include Dr. Elizabeth Kessler, the medical director of the Alzheimer's memory assessment team at Highland Park Hospital, and Sharon Roberts, a nurse with the Lake County Health Department who serves as president-elect of the chapter.

"Dr. Kessler will give a clinical description of Alzheimer's from a doctor's standpoint," explained Rappin. "It's important to get a medical evaluation."

Kessler said she will go over the clinical symptoms and the different kinds of evaluations doctors use to diagnose the disease. Alzheimer's is the most common form of dementia, manifesting itself as progressive loss of judgment, reasoning and motor functions.

"There are other conditions that can cause similar symptoms," she explained.

"I'll discuss what kind of things might be causing it," she added. "It is hereditary in some cases."

She will also cover the different treatment options and explain the current research going on regarding Alzheimer's.

"I'll talk a little about the legal aspects," she said. "And there will be time for questions."

Roberts will focus on dealing with the disease both as a newly-diagnosed patient and as a caregiver.

"Sharon will speak about learning how to live with Alzheimer's. It's devastating news, but it doesn't have to be tragic," Rappin said. "It's important to keep a light-hearted attitude; it makes for a healthy patient and caregiver if both have a sense of humor."

Roberts will focus on the needs of the caregivers as they relate to care of the patient. There are many positive things they can do, she said.

"Caregivers need to be laid back, generally women, are pulled in many directions but have to make a point to care for themselves as well as the Alzheimer's victim.

"You have to stand back and take a look at where you are to be effective for everybody," said Roberts. "If you don't take care of yourself, who's going to take care of the person you're taking care of?"

Support groups are invaluable for caregivers, she said. They can hear what other people have done and talk about things that might help.

"As symptoms change, demands change. The caregiver needs to change as well," she explained. "As the patient progresses in the disease the caregiver needs to cope."

Implants offer hope for hearing impaired

Do you hear sound but cannot understand what people say, or have difficulty understanding the radio, television or telephone, even with the strongest or most advanced hearing aids? If so, you are not alone.

"Unfortunately, thousands of Americans are affected by severe-to-profound hearing loss every year," said Max S. Chartrand, Ph.D., national coordinator of the Cochlear Network of Audiologists and the Cochlear Associates Program. "In the past, there was little that could be done for these people, but now cochlear implant technology may be an option."

A new brochure, "When Hearing Aids Are Not Enough," offers information about cochlear implants, surgically implanted devices that bypass damaged parts of the inner ear, which may enable recipients to receive sound information useful in understanding speech.

Cochlear implants are a proven medical option designed to help people communicate more easily, interact more comfortably with others and take advantage of educational, occupational and social opportunities that might otherwise be missed. Previously available only for the profoundly deaf, the Nucleus 22 Channel Cochlear Implant has been released for a broader range of people, adults with severe-to-profound hearing loss and limited benefit from hearing aids.

Could you or someone you know be a candidate for a cochlear implant? Call 1-800-458-4999 (Voice) or 1-800-483-3123 (TDD) for a copy of the free brochure, "When Hearing Aids Are Not Enough." Knowledgeable hotline staff can also direct you to an experienced cochlear implant center in your area. Hotline hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (CDT).

FDA clears ulcer treatment

Abbott Laboratories announced it received clearance from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to market its antibiotic Blaxin® (clarithromycin), in combination with the anti-secretory agent Prilosec® (omeprazole), for the treatment of active duodenal ulcers associated with Helicobacter pylori infection.

Blaxin is the first antibiotic cleared by the FDA for active duodenal ulcer therapy in combination with an anti-secretory agent. This regimen has been shown to heal duodenal ulcers and to eradicate the bacterium associated with approximately 90 percent of the ulcers.

"Dual therapy with Blaxin and omeprazole offers benefits to patients by both healing the ulcer and helping reduce the rate of recurrence," said Andre Pernet, vice president, research and development, pharmaceutical products division at Abbott. "Blaxin represents a breakthrough in the treatment of active duodenal ulcers associated with H. pylori."

Attitudes change on geriatric dentistry

Just because people are long in the tooth doesn't mean they have to be short of teeth, say dentists who work with older patients.

"The view in the past was that when people aged, they lost their teeth, their hair, their sex drive," said Dr. Keith Suchy, a general dentist who practices in Westchester. "Now we know that all of that isn't true. Our attitudes about aging have changed a lot."

As people age, the frequency of visits to a physician increases, while the frequency of visit to a dentist decreases. This issue is one dentists want to change.

"Baby Boomers are just now starting to enter their 50s and they understand the need for dentistry," said Suchy. "They were the first generation to Americans to grow up with fluoride and they comprehend the importance of keeping their teeth. However, the current generation of older adults, the one ahead of the Boomers, is not as educated. People of this generation do not value their oral health as much as their general health. They believe that aging means losing their teeth."

Dentists are trying to change that by becoming better equipped to work with elderly patients.

"During the past decade or so, dentists have become much more knowledgeable about aging issues," said Dr. Trucia Drummond, a general dentist who practices in Chicago's Loop. "Dentists know more about the psychology and sociology of aging, the diseases of aging, pharmacology and drug interactions, and the biology and physiology issues regarding aging."

Drummond also said dentists have learned better people skills—ability to communicate, adapt treatment plans, diagnose treatment needs and perform specialized procedures.

"Attitudes have changed," said Drummond. "I think there is more respect for the elderly patient today, in general and in the dental progression. I know I really enjoy my older patients because I feel as if I understand them better."

Geriatric dentistry has a higher profile these days. Dental schools offer more courses regarding geriatric dental issues, and speakers who address geriatric dental issues are popular at dental meetings.

"We've made great leaps in addressing the problems of the elderly," said Drummond. "Now if we can just change some of those myths older people have about dentistry, we'll be getting somewhere."

One of those myths is that once you have dentures, you don't have to go to the dentist.

"People with dentures should visit the dentist for oral cancer screenings, for check-ups involving the tissues below the denture, for fittings to make sure the denture doesn't become loose because the bone shrinks," said Suchy.

About 40 percent of adults 65 and older wear dentures, down from 60 percent in the 1960s, he said. However, cavities are on the rise in older adults.

"Older Americans are keeping their teeth longer, and they are more susceptible to caries," he explained. "Also, as we age, our gum tissue recedes, exposing roots to acids that cause cavities."

Older adults must become aware of their need for fluoride, he said.

"The concept that children need fluoride to develop strong, healthy teeth is universally accepted," he said. "We must now educate older Americans about the importance of fluoride in fighting cavities and maintaining strong, healthy teeth, just like their grandkids."

Fluoride and other improvement in dentistry will make tooth loss increasingly rare in the elderly.

"In the future you won't see as many commercials for denture cream on television," he said. "Instead, you'll see older movie stars hawking toothpaste and other products, trying to capture that important older market."

Mothers and daughters bring fables to life together

MAUREEN KUEHNE

Correspondent

Celebrating Mother's Day somewhat untraditionally this year will be a group of moms and daughters who will spend part of their day rehearsing for the upcoming production of "The Fabulous Fable Factory," presented by the Waukegan Community Players.

Four mother/daughter combinations are in this children's show that features some of Aesop's favorite fables.

Say the names Mary or Margaret and two heads automatically turn as the Schultz women work together. Mary is mother and mentor. Margaret is daughter and director of the show, which will be playing to school audiences May 16 and 17, and for the public twice on Saturday, May 18, at the Melba Wixom Auditorium, corner of Jackson and Glen Rock in Waukegan.

Mary and Margaret began their dramatic relationship years ago when backyard shows progressed to children's productions at their church. They were partners as Margaret headed up the arts program for the Zion Park Dist.

Through the years Mary has been behind scenes, coordinating and executing everything from sound and lights to costuming and stage building.

Margaret has written and produced a number of original scripts for the Jack Benny Center for the Performing Arts. She is a resident of Zion who has realized some of her professional goals without having to move to the east or west coasts.

Appearing for the first time in a musical together are mother and daughter Aundrea Lewis and Alexandra Martinez, who have been harmonizing since Aundrea sang lullabies and baby cooed back. From a musical family herself, Aundrea sings professionally and has fun memories of working with a popular Elvis impersonator. She regularly performs at Basil's in Waukegan. Alexandra is involved in state competition with the Warren Twp. High School Chorus, where she is a sophomore.

For Libertyville residents Mary and Amanda Kremkau, "The Fabulous Fable Factory" offers different challenges. Amanda is on-stage as Emma the Emotion Emoter. Amanda, who aspires to a career in theater, has gotten experience with community productions and is a freshman at Libertyville High School.

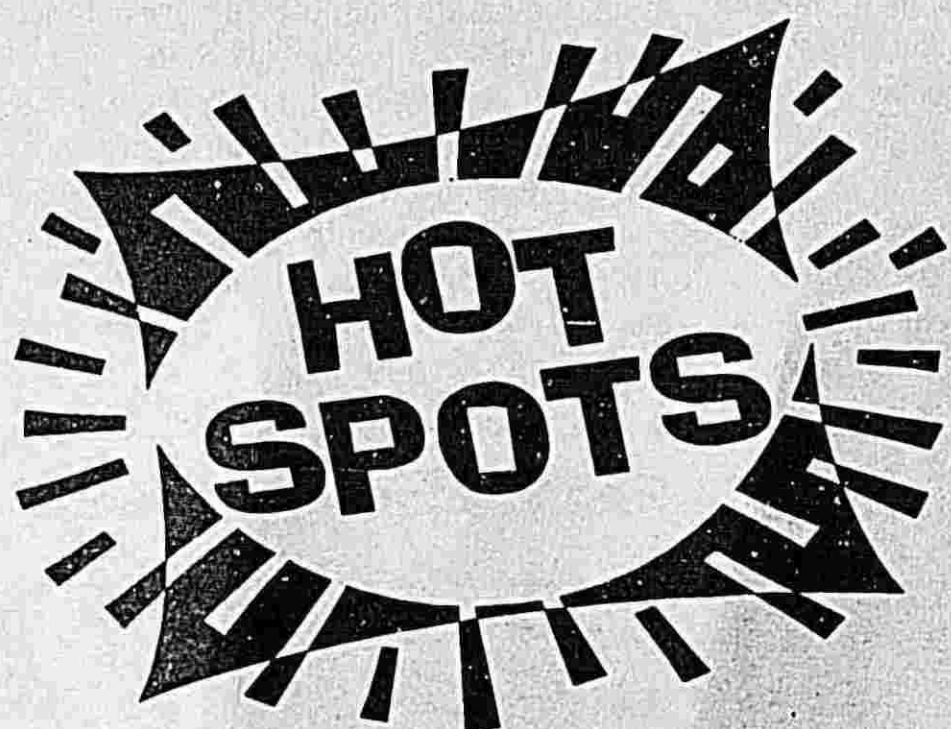

Rounding out the mother and daughter duos are Maureen and Bahne Kuehne of Gurnee who are teamed up to choreograph the show. Maureen has been active in community theater since she was a teen.

Bahne is a student at the College of Lake County and began dancing four years ago in San Antonio with a Hebrew folk troupe.

Amish accents make this house a 'picturebook' home

Barbara and Larry Herbert share their Lindenhurst home with an assortment of collectible dolls and teddy bears, numerous figurines, and several animals.

The couple moved into the house 30 years ago when it was new, and began an extensive redecorating project about six years ago. That was about the time Patricia's Gift Ware opened in Antioch, and Barbara became a regular customer.

Story by SUZIE REED
Staff Reporter

"It was a little tiny store when I started going there," she recalled.

The purchase of a dining room set was followed by a bedroom suite and living room furnishings, all accented by a collection of Amish accessories. Hardwood floors frame area rugs downstairs; while scatter rugs adorn the bedrooms. The home has a cheerful, casual feeling, with wedding ring quilts, chair rails, and braided rugs. Other country accents include a grandfather clock, rocking chairs, a quilt rack, and print cushions on the dining and kitchen chairs.

Barbara's fondness for stained glass is seen not only in an inset beside the front door, but also in the corners of the bay window in the dining room. Glass of a Different Color in Lindenhurst quickly became another favorite place to shop. A cabinet in the kitchen features a rose pattern she designed herself.

"I like roses," she said. "I don't have a lot of luck growing them."

The rose theme is repeated in the dining room wall paper, while a custom-made swag above the front door matches the design.

Pint-sized furniture around the house holds a variety of dolls, bears and rabbits.

One bedroom is devoted exclusively to these residents, and includes a large doll house. A baby doll sleeps in a cradle (once broken years ago by one of her sons, the doll is delicately held together with glue, said Barbara), and a life-size collectible portrays "John-John" Kennedy as he looked when his father was president. Two more baby dolls were crafted by Barbara to represent her sons, Michael, now 35, and Scott, 30.

Large cabinets and shelves display even more collections. The dining room hutch holds china, crystal and Precious Moments figurines. An even more massive assortment of the cherubs fill a cabinet in the living room, and a smaller case holds a array of cocker spaniels in honor of Taffy, a golden spaniel who has the run of the house.

Upstairs in the guest bedroom, a white parakeet named Snowball surveys the world from a standing cage.

Barbara admitted she cleared the refrigerator door of notes and magnets for the photo shoot, but the kitchen is nevertheless a warm, homey room. Casual accents include a ceiling fan and country telephone; birdhouses in the wallpaper border echo a birdhouse on the counter and another hanging by the sink.

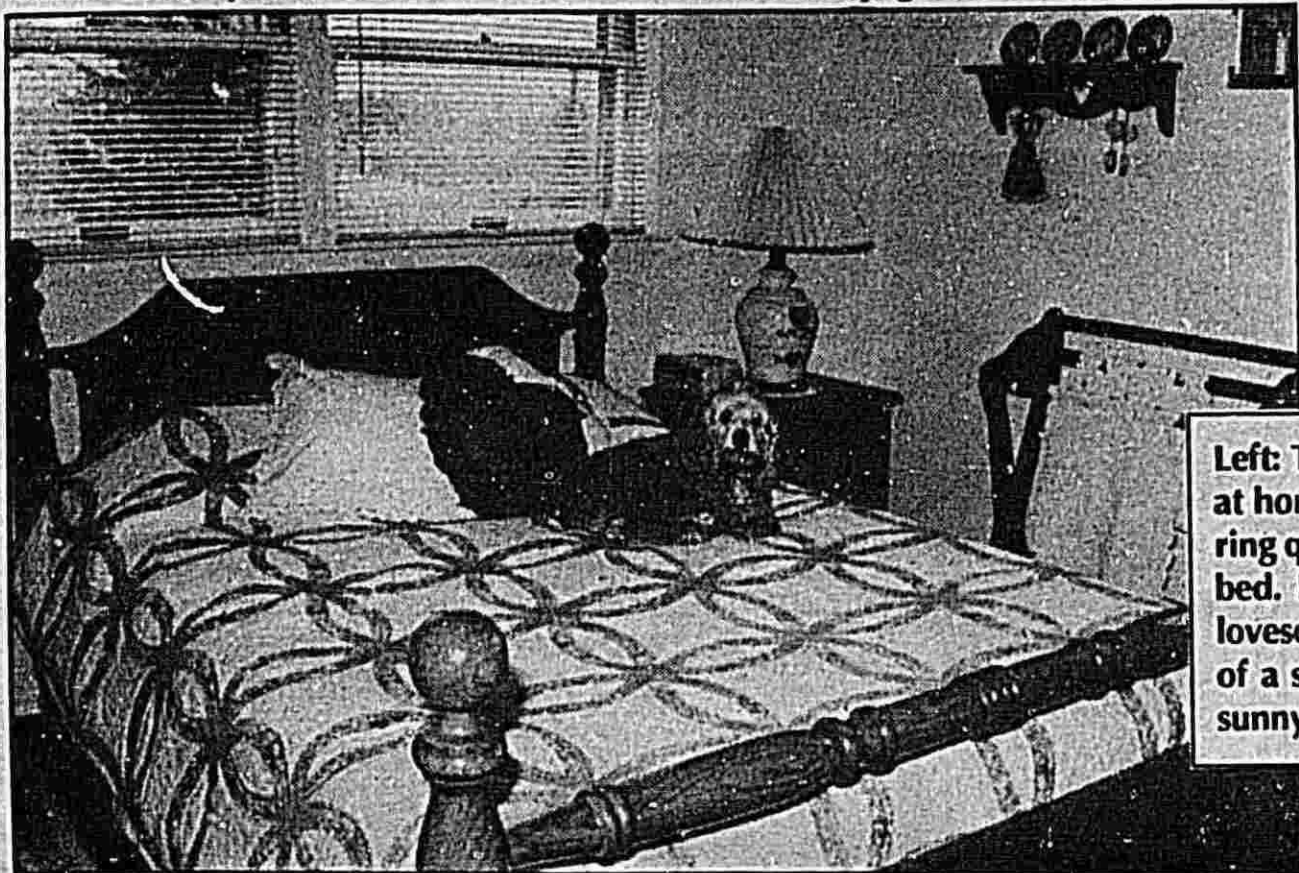

A print depicts "The Little Engine That Could," with the phrase "I think I can."

"That gets me going," noted Barbara.

Hearts designs are picked up in much of the decor, including a print her husband bought for her. Barbara said many of the accessories were surprise gifts from Larry. She often admires items when the two go shopping, and he makes careful note.

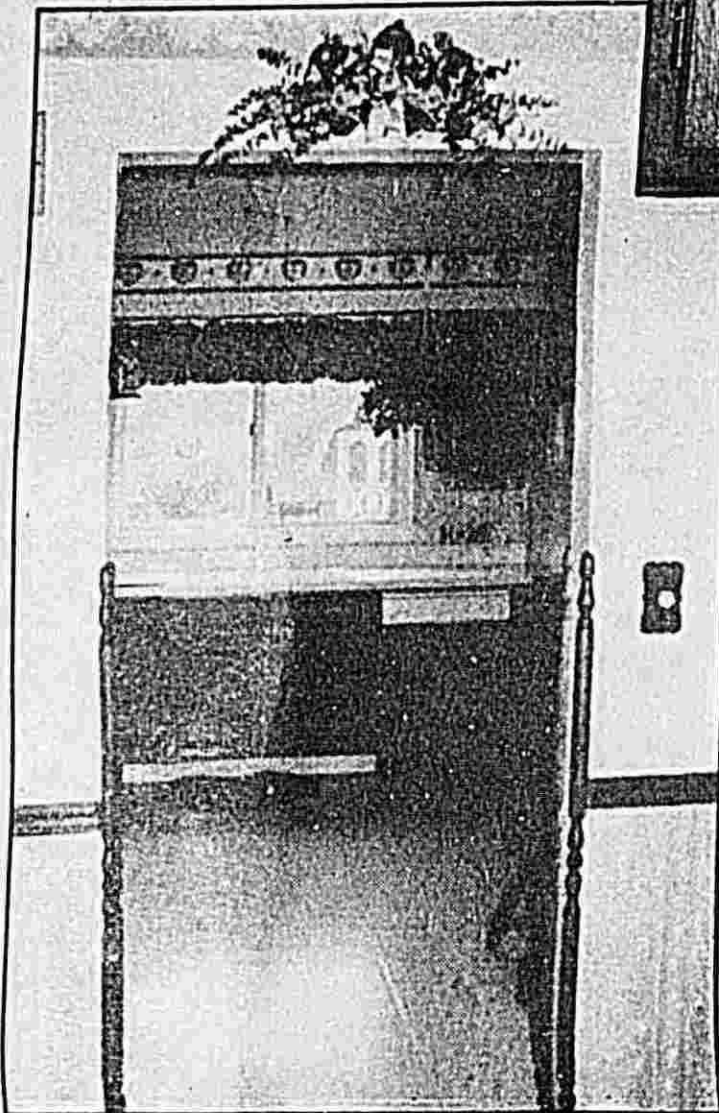

"He buys things I like," she said. "He must listen to me."

Larry has an undeniable romantic streak, as evidenced by two heart-shaped rocks that Another of Larry's contributions is a lighted waterfall on the deck, which also holds an inviting porch swing and a BBQ grill. He plans to put a roof overhead. On the front porch, he has added wooden "gingerbread" trim.

Their redecorating efforts have produced a home that reflects their lives. Thirty years of love flows through every room.

A sense of proportion is essential in placing pictures

Many people have a difficult time hanging pictures and art work. Problems can arise in deciding what kind of hooks to use, where to hang the art work, and even what kind of frames to put on pictures. Here are some tips to help you get started.

Proper framing can make a world of difference in the decorating effect of a painting or picture. Look at your pictures with a critical eye to see if the frame coordinates well with the picture. Framing is an art in itself, and a rather complex one. A frame should never be more important than the picture it surrounds and it should present the picture at its best. Even the size and color of the matting which covers the area between frame and picture are important. A fine line at the outer or inner edge can highlight the picture within.

The design and character of the frame itself is crucial. It should relate directly to the character of the picture. You would not dream of choosing, for example, a heavy and elaborately carved gilt frame for a primitive bowl of fruit.

When pictures are to go against a patterned wallpaper, frames should be wide and heavy enough to separate the picture from the patterned background.

Once you have your pictures framed, you must decide what kinds of hooks to use. Hooks that are fixed to the wall with adhesive may be a hazard, because the adhesive may dry out so that the picture may fall at some point and be damaged. The best hooks are those that have a nail through them. And of course, it helps to be able to put the nail into wood. You can use a magnetic stud-finder to determine if there is wood. When hanging heavy pictures on dry-wall, you will need to use a moly-bolt. It is more practical to hang large pictures on two hooks to give extra support and to help them hang straight.

So after you frame your pictures and purchase the proper hooks—what next?

With a few exceptions, pictures should be hung at average eye level. You might ask, whose eye? Well, the average height ranges from five-feet eight inches to five-feet ten inches. Often there is a tendency to hang pictures too high but this does not contribute to comfortable viewing.

As in all decorating, a sense of proportion is essential in placing pictures. The size of the wall and the size of the furniture beneath are important factors. A large painting in a heavy frame would look top-heavy over a small, delicate piece of furniture. A single small print looks lost over a heavy piece of furniture. —by MARY LEBEN, Decorating Den, Grayslake and Gurnee. For decorating answers call Leben at 662-6612.

Proper placement of shade, ornamental trees is essential

Before purchasing trees or ornamentals ask these questions: What is the purpose of planting a tree in a particular site on your property? Will it serve a functional purpose? Will it be for aesthetics only? What is the mature size? Do certain trees grow better in wet or dry conditions? Should I test my soil before planting?

This may seem like a lot to think about, however, matching the proper tree or trees to your particular site is important and will enable the tree to grow at a healthy rate. The mighty shade trees are magnificent in form throughout the winter, fun to view as the tiny leaves emerge in the spring and grow to maturity in the summer. It's soothing to hear the wind move through the tree tops in a summer rain and delightful to see the fall colorings of some trees.

The ornamentals, such as the flowering crabs burst open their buds to show us red, pink and white flowers in the spring. A specimen crab has a form unmatched in the summer, while the fall and winter show us berries for interest.

These plants add to your gardens and bring years of enjoyment, however, they also can function well in a landscape. Some examples are: They provide shade for your decks and patios, and as they mature, for your home itself.

Ornamentals, especially clump forms, can provide you with great privacy hedges from un-inviting views. Trees can outline your property and make the middle of your property, if left open, to feel like a small park. Smaller, delicate ornamentals like the serviceberry and dwarf magnolia seem to welcome friends and neighbors to your home, while adding fragrance.

Knowing the mature size of the tree or ornamental selected is also important. Some general guidelines for ornamentals such as your flowering crabs, redbud, serviceberry, and pears is a mature height of 20- to 30-feet high with a 20-foot spread. Some varieties of the pear will get a bit larger. Your shade trees start at 40-feet high and will grow larger with a 35- to 40-foot spread on some varieties.

Some ornamentals and trees for wet situations are: whitespire, riversii birch, black alder, larch, red maple, swamp white oak, white oak, American linden, shadblow serviceberry, and of course the willows.

Some selections for dry locations are: amur maple, Norway maple, hackberry, green ash varieties, honeylocust, littleleaf linden, poplar.

Most trees like a soil ph of 5.5 to 7.0 and will perform well. Most soil in the Lake County area are at these levels and it shows as you look around and view the many varieties of trees and ornamentals flourishing in these landscapes.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect, owner, Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth

Tips for a beautiful lawn

Mowing actually encourages your lawn to grow horizontally and spread into a thick carpet that can choke out weeds. It's most beneficial to observe the one-third rule and mow frequently enough to clip only one-third of the grass blade. Removing more than one-third of the grass blade can cause a shallow root system. A deeper root system is desirable because it allows your lawn to find water and soil nutrients more easily, especially in hot weather.

Mowing with a sharp blade set at a high cutting height is another way to help your lawn develop a deeper root system.

It's best not to mow in the same pattern; change directions every time you mow and overlap each swath by about 4-inches.

Some vegetables make better bedmates than others

More and more people are growing vegetables because they know that not only is the taste better when picked fresh from the garden, but home-grown are so much cheaper than shop-bought. It's essential to sow when the soil is moist but not wet or waterlogged. It pays to buy top-quality seeds and plants. Sow seeds in drills and never forget the old well-proven saying: Don't sow too early, too deeply or too thickly.

Some Lake County gardeners might say that you shouldn't plant vegetables side by side because you won't get a good yield. Take that—as you would your vegetables—with a pinch of salt.

But one thing is certain: Some vegetables make better bedmates than others, and for what it's worth, here is a list of "compatible bedmates."

Asparagus—basil, parsley, tomatoes.
Beans—marigolds, celery, potatoes.
Beets—carrots, onions, kohlrabi, cauliflower, kale, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, turnips, cabbage.
Carrots—onions and parsley (which repel carrot flies), beets, peas, sage.
Corn—beans, cucumbers, lettuce, soybeans, spinach.
Cucumbers—corn, radishes.

Lettuce—cabbage, onions, radishes.
Nasturtiums—potatoes.
Onions—carrots, lettuce, radishes.
Peas—beans, carrots, corn, potatoes, turnips.
Peppers—carrots, eggplants, peas.
Radishes—carrots, lettuce, spinach.
Strawberries—borage, lettuce, basil, nasturtiums.
Turnips—peas.

Have fun as color revives old patio furniture

Consumers want design ideas that extend their living space beyond the walls of their homes. And they reportedly are looking for more than dime store chaise lounges and folding chairs. They want color and comfort combined with interesting design. Many manufacturers have responded with trendy, expensive new outdoor furniture lines. Here are money-saving tips for using your creativity to make your own trendsetting outdoor furniture.

Start by examining your outdoor spaces to determine what you need. Consider space, use and color. Then hit your neighborhood garage sales in search of treasures: rusty wrought iron and metal patio furniture, from tables and chairs to love seats and benches; beat-up wood sun lounges and planters; and discolored sun dials or statues.

The greatest thing about finding an old set of lawn furniture to refinish is that you can go crazy with color.

Picture this, bright yellow wrought iron patio furniture cushioned in a black, white, yellow and green floral print. Or how about baby blue Adirondack chairs cradling puffy white cloud pillows?

Try your hand at these techniques:

• Masking. Create stripes, diamonds, nearly any straight-sided shape simply by using masking tape and paper to outline your design and protect the surfaces you want to be another color.

If you're painting metal furniture, be sure to use a rust-inhibitive paint and, to save a step, look for paints like DAP DeRusto with built-in primers.

• Stenciling. Why should stenciling be only an indoors and country project featuring ducks and hearts? You can stencil geometric shapes or even a family insignia onto metal front porch chairs.

To speed up the job, use a quick dry enamel paint like DAP Spray-N-Go. These paints dry in as little as 10 minutes, allowing you to do the base coat and stencil coat in only about 30 minutes.

• Antiquing. The old technique of streaking stain over paint can get a new twist from two coats of spray paint. Create texture in the second coat by dragging a wire brush through the wet paint or blotting it with a dry sponge.

The key is to have some fun with it. The bargain basement price you can get on furniture at garage sales is you license to experiment. All you need is masking tape and paper.

Even when painting outside, protect the area beneath and around your work area—spray paint particles drift.

And you should not use metal furniture on a pressure-treated wood deck. The metal that comes in contact with the wood can react with the chemical treatment, resulting in rust stains on your deck. Instead, opt for wood or plastic furniture to decorate your deck.

Seasonal garment storage tips offered

Now is the time for storing all winter sweaters, blankets and overcoats. An innovative storage and protection product, Cedar Close-It Storage Bags and Sachets by Franzus Co., is now available. Cedar Close-It's unique "Double the Protection" system works by providing a storage container and protection in one package. First, the cedar-treated storage bags offer a barrier of protection against moths and mildew. Second, the concentrated cedar-scented sachets work as a natural repellent, instead of using chemical mothballs.

To properly protect your garments from such pests as moths, fleas, silverfish and mildew, it is important to thoroughly clean garments by either washing or dry cleaning.

Insect eggs may remain on clothing for extended periods of time and may hatch sometime during your storage season.

For more information on Cedar Close-It call (203)723-6664.

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

Take your imagination on a trip to Shakespeare's Faerie Forest with the Bowen Park Theatre Company. Artistic director Maura Elizabeth Manning's rendition of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is quick-paced and sure to keep audiences amused.

While much of the dialogue in Shakespeare's comedy is meant to be enjoyed by the more sophisticated adult, there's enough physical comedy to keep a young boy of about 7, sitting in the front row on opening night, excitedly laughing and clapping his hands.

Again, J. Spencer Greene doesn't fail to do wonders with a small stage. The stage is transformed into the rustic forest; burlap is hung creatively and flower petals are strewn about. Woven into the design are wooden beams, slides and even a rappelling rope which allows Puck (Eddie Schumacher) and the other fairies to tumble, fly and do the acrobatics that make the fairies believable.

The action of "A Midsummer Night's dream centers on four pairs of lovers, but of course, "The course of true love never did run smooth."

Lysander (John Chambers) and Hermia (Shelly Scoville) are in love. Demetrius (John Corona) is also in love with Hermia and he is the father's choice, Egeus (Russell Krochok). Helena (Renee Johnson) is suffering an unrequited love with Demetrius. The Duke of Athens, Theseus (Lou Saliba) decrees that Hermia should marry Demetrius. Theseus is soon to marry Hippolyta (Karen Raymore). Saliba and Raymore play dual roles as the Faerie King and Queen, Oberon and Titania.

The antics begin when Lysander and Hermia run away to the fairy forest where Theseus and Puck begin to meddle in the affairs of the lovers with a magic love potion. Puck administers the potion to the wrong person and soon Lysander is in love with Helena while Titania falls in love with Bottom (Marshall J. Bean) who, by Oberon's good graces, is wearing the head of an ass.

Household forges new traditions in family ties

Mother's Day is a time of fond memories and honoring one of the most important people in our lives. This tradition can create stress and bring out new feelings in this era of blended families.

For the family of Deane Borgeson this is especially true. Deane was adopted, has two adopted children, as well as three children by birth. In addition she is remarried, so some of her children are half siblings and have different fathers as well as a stepfather and stepmother. Finally both her adopted children have contact with their birth mothers adding an extra element to the mix.

The family has dealt with their unique situation very openly and has sought out professional help when it's needed.

Terry, Deane's second oldest son at 14, has a very open relationship with his birth mother Laura, he also has a stepmother.

"I just think it's an extra card to buy," he said of Mother's Day. "It's nice to know I have three mothers and it's nice to know I have Laura. I don't think of one mother as more important than another."

Terry came into contact with Laura four years ago. His younger sister Casey, 9, has been in contact with her birth mother Krisha all her life, through letters and photos. Terry was always jealous of Casey's special relationship prompting Deane to search for his birth mother.

"We have a great relationship. My mom was always wondering where I got my personality and now we know," said Terry. This year on Mother's Day he'll probably spend time with his mother and Laura, maybe they'll go out for lunch, he said.

"Laura and Terry are like buddies. She doesn't discipline him or nag him. She sees him about every six weeks. I think she knows it was the right decision for her," said Deane.

Casey has had a rocky relationship with Krisha.

"It's kind of hard sometimes. My birth mother is never happy with what she has. She's like, if you send me a card, I'll send you something," said Casey.

She explained she even received a "horrible" note recently from Krisha saying she didn't want to talk to Casey unless she made a better effort to stay in touch.

"She seems like she's a child and I'm an adult. I'll send her a card. I can't do everything just because it's Mother's Day," said Casey.

To help sort out her feelings and deal with her birth mother's instability, Casey meets with Nancy Golden of the Midwest Adoption Center, with locations in Long Grove and Des Plaines. The center offers counseling for many problems relating to adoption for both parents and children, and helps establish relationships with birth families.

"Nancy helped me with problems and fighting," said Casey.

"I think Nancy helped Casey come to terms with her birth mom's problems and [she] knows they aren't her fault because her birth mom isn't healthy," Deane said.

Adding to Deane's connection to the world of adoption she founded a private adoption center for birth mothers, The Adoption Connection, in Highland Park.

In response to the loss birth mothers sometimes feel around Mother's Day, Deane is having a dinner for all the birth moms and their mothers at the center, the Monday after Mother's Day.

"Mother's Day definitely stirs things up for the kids," Deane stated. She said the kids often don't bring up the subject because they don't want to hurt their parents and the parents don't want to bring it up if it may hurt the kids.

Open adoption is definitely a plus in Deane's mind.

"You never know when you might need information, so it's good to keep the channels of communication open. It's nice when adopted kids ask questions and they can go to the person who can answer them," she said. "I think it's healthier for the kids as an adoptee with minimal information. It wasn't a comfortable topic in my household. That's the way it was in those days. They thought about it but weren't comfortable bringing it up."

Deane recently started a search for her birth mother, not so much for herself, but for her oldest son who is 19.

"This is a snowball effect; it affects lots of other people for generations to come. They want to know their ethnic and medical background," she explained. "I'm delighted this won't have to happen to my kids."

Does she feel comfortable with all the openness?

"I don't think it's easy as a parent, but part of giving the very best for your kids is nurturing the communication with their birth parents," said Deane. "I don't think parenting is exclusive. When people marry they develop close relations with their in-laws, but it doesn't diminish their relationship with their parents."

On past Mother's Days, Deane's children hadn't brought anything up about their birth mothers, she said. Last year she mentioned calling Laura to Terry, but he had already done something for her on his own. Acknowledging Casey's mother on the holiday is always something Deane does herself.

Golden said adoptive mothers often need help dealing with the realization that adoption is born of loss.

"A lot of people think that Mother's Day is another reminder that their family is different. For a birth mother it's another reminder of the child she gave up," said Golden. "Birth mothers often say 'I thought of this child every day of my life,' but that doesn't mean they can't go on and lead normal lives."

Nancy uses creative avenues to bring out the feelings of the children she counsels. She has three dogs; Casey is very fond of them.

"We use them because all kitty cats and dogs are See FAMILY TIES from page B26

MAGICWORD

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions—horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

Hiking Hawaii

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

A common misconception is Hawaii has little to offer other than beautiful beaches.

While the Hawaiian Islands are home to some of the most spectacular beaches in the world, the interior of the islands is what keeps me coming back. And what better way to explore the unique character of each island than by hiking?

Ancient trails will lead you along the sea through lush tropical rainforest, past waterfalls, across miles of recent black lava flows, through a still steaming crater, all the way to a frozen (yes, like in ice!) lake 10,000 feet above the sea.

Actually, some of the things Hawaii doesn't have makes hiking in Hawaii attractive.

Nature itself, though, may be the strongest reason for caution while adventuring off the beaten path. Hawaii is home to 21 of the world's 22 climatic zones, meaning changes in weather are quick and dramatic. An ill-prepared hiker can find the nature he seeks turn on him in a matter of minutes.

As they used to tell us in Boy Scouts, be prepared. Check weather forecasts, pick up a good hiking trail map at one of the local book stores and of course, bring water with you, even on a short hike.

The best idea may be to join one of the many organized hikes offered by organizations such as the Sierra Club, the Hawaii Nature Center, The Nature Conservancy, as well as several tour operators.

For instance, Ken Schmitt, of "Hike Maui," offers 50 different hikes, during which you'll see rare birds in a native rainforest where you can pick berries and learn about medicinal herbs. You'll be able to shower in a waterfall and shampoo your hair with awapuhi ginger. You'll have lunch at an altitude of 10,000 feet, with a breathtaking view of Maui. Schmitt, who is also a teacher of natural history, charges anywhere from $70 to $120 per person for hikes, during which you will also get a real education on Hawaiian culture.

Jan Roberts, of "Adventure Spirit Hawaii," offers hikes on both the Big Island, as well as tours on Kauai. Since Roberts is a nutritionist, she emphasizes natural vegetarian foods, yoga and a spiritual connection to the natural world.

Again, don't hesitate to plan your own hiking adventure. I've personally found most trails to be well marked, but always bring a trail map and be prepared for rapid weather changes.

The Mother's Day weekend in Chicago will hold very special meaning for 400 children and their families who will participate in the Ameritech Great Lakes Children's Choir Festival, hosted by Chicago Children's Choir.

Ten choirs from the Ameritech service area will participate in the festival. The Great Lakes Children's Choir Festival, made possible by a $20,000 grant from Ameritech, will begin May 11 with choral workshops by clinician Nick Page and Rebecca Thompson. Duaine Wolfe, famed conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will rehearse and prepare the choirs for the joint concert at Orchestra Hall.

Each choir will perform selections of traditional choral music and together the choirs will perform "Laudamus Te" (from "Gloria") by A. Vivaldi, "I Bought Me a Cat" by A. Copland, "Jubilate Deo" by M. Praetorius, "Alleluia" (from "The Place of the Blest") by R. Thompson, "Psalm 150" by D. Wilcox, and "The Sky is Whole and Clear" by B. Odland under the direction of Wolfe.

In addition to performing at Orchestra Hall, each choir will perform May 11 at the Chicago Cultural Center, 78 E. Washington, in either the Randolph or Washington Street lobby from 1:15 to 2:45 p.m. and later from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on the Dock Street-Stage 2 at Navy Pier. adopted and leave their real mom and dad," she explained. "It's also easier for kids to relate to animals because it's unconditional love."

Golden said Mother's Day is often a time when adopted kids get edgy and crabby. She explained she teaches their parents to let the kids know it's OK to think of their birth mother on that day.

"Kids are thinking of their birth parents, but there's no model for this type of relationship in our society. We're working on blended families in society, but adoption was always silent. I think for kids it's very important to talk of these things," she said.

Deane believes it's great for people to know there are resources out there for those who may need help.

The Midwest Adoption Center can help with adoption-related issues. They will present the second of a two-part workshop May 13, in Highland Park on the subject of "Talking to Children about Adoption," at the home of Elyn Wieselmann founder of Adoption by Choice. For further information on the workshop contact Wieselmann at 432-20223. Dream tionally noteworthy were Raymore as the fairy queen Titania with her maniacal laugh; Johnson and Scoville who drew the audiences in whether they were comically enraged or broken-hearted; and Salida who fits well his royal character.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" also includes a play within a play, "Pyramus and Thisbe." Some of the most comical scenes stem from this subplot in which a group of locals are preparing a play for nuptial celebrations. Bean's Bottom steals much attention as the jester. But also very funny are Snug (Wallace R. Stack) who plays a weakly lion in the sub-play and Flute (Sean Richards) who is stuck playing the female role, Thisbe, and has problems staying in the soprano mode. One especially hilarious moment is at the end of "Pyramus and Thisbe" when the "actors" come out for their curtain call and break into a non-synchronized chorus-line dance.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is somewhat long, more than 3 hours (including two intermissions), but it is enjoyable from beginning to end. Remaining dates are May 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18 at 8 p.m.; May 12 at 3 p.m. Bowen Park Theater is located at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, off Sheridan Rd. in Waukegan. For more information call 360-4741.

How an airhead met 'His Airness'

Michael Jordan and I have something in common. Air. In his case, it's the large amount of air that separates his feet from the ground when he jumps for a slam-dunk. In my case, it's the amount of air that suddenly builds up between my ears when faced with the opportunity to meet a celebrity I admire.

I met Michael purely by luck. In September of 1994, I flew down to Sarasota, Fla., for a week with two girlfriends, Bernie and Colleen, to celebrate our fortieth birthdays. Knowing that Michael Jordan was down there with the White Sox, Bernie's husband Joe had made us promise to go to the ballfield and try to get his autograph while we were there.

Still, meeting Michael Jordan was not foremost in our minds. Drinking margaritas and laying in the sun was.

On this particular night, we stopped at our favorite local nightspot, "Cha Cha Coconuts," for a nightcap at about midnight on the way back to our motel. There was a reggae band playing, and the three of us were standing near the dance floor, talking and sipping our drinks. Suddenly Colleen said, "I think I just saw Michael Jordan walk by!" Since Colleen was a Knicks fan from New York, and couldn't be trusted to recognize a Bulls player if he bit her, I walked over to the other side of the bar to see if she was right.

Imagine my shock when I spotted Michael Jordan, sitting at a table with several minor league ballplayers, in all his bald-headed, handsome glory. I was thrilled. I was awestruck. And I was definitely going to walk over there and talk to him because I knew that if I let the chance pass, I would be doomed to relive this moment over and over in my memory. "You moron! Michael was right there. Why

And so I did. I sauntered over to his table, hoping to impress him with my wit and charm. There I was, standing right next to him, a mere inch or two away from "His Airness." He looked at me. I looked more embarrassing than mine. She thought I was making the whole thing up until we got near his table, where she stopped dead in her tracks as her lower jaw dropped about three inches. Finally, she snapped out of it, rushed over to him, and proceeded to shake him by the shoulder while insisting that she didn't care if it was Sunday, she had to get his autograph for her husband or else.

Michael was not amused, so I intervened before he got too irritated. "Bernie," I pleaded. "Michael said he'd give us an autograph at the ballfield, okay?" And when I said that, he looked at me, smiled, reached out and shook my hand again. "See?" he said to Bernie. "She knows!"

That made me feel better. At least I had partially redeemed myself. And about 10 minutes later, I even went back to his table and, seeing an empty chair, sat myself down and chatted with Michael and one of the other ballplayers for about 10 minutes. (Don't ask me where I got the "chutzpah" to do that, because I don't know.)

Unfortunately, the human mind can be cruel. The only moment of the whole event that my memory chooses to relive over and over is this:

DONNA ABEAR

at him. And then I blurted out, "Are you Michael Jordan?"

Oh, he was impressed, all right. He grinned at me with a sly "BLONDE AIRHEAD ALERT" smile and pointed to the ballplayer sitting next to him and said, "No, he is."

Was I embarrassed? Yes! But I figured I couldn't possibly make a bigger fool out of myself than I already had, so I went on to introduce myself and tell him how much I admired him and loved to watch him play basketball. We shook hands. I asked him for an autograph, but he said he didn't give autographs on Sunday, although I could come down to the ballfield to get one. Then I told him that if he didn't mind, I wanted to bring my girlfriend over to meet him, too.

That was my second mistake. Never one to be outdone, Bernie's reaction to meeting him was even

So long my friends, not goodbye...Love, Zeus

They say April showers bring May flowers. This year, the month of May started by taking our little tiger, Zeus. Those of you who came out to support the Applause For Paws Benefit at The Paradise Beach Club may have seen, or even touched, Zeus. He passed away on May 1 at the Fox Lake Animal Hospital. The cause of death was pneumonia.

As you may have learned at the benefit, all the tigers that you see today are the result of 24 tigers brought to the United States in the early 1940s. Due to severe inbreeding that still goes on today, tigers are born with many birth defects and have a weak immune system. When confronted with pneumonia and other such ailments, they have little or no chance of survival.

The next time you stare at the clouds in the sky, don't be surprised if you see our little tiger running free and loose; he plans to see all of you again and asked us to say, "So long my friends, not goodbye. Love, Zeus."

'Mulholland' LAPD before video cams

It looks like the Los Angeles Police Dept. was up to its old Rodney King type tricks even before he was born, if we are to believe the "true story" about the "Hat Squad" of the early post-WWII years, as depicted in "Mulholland Falls."

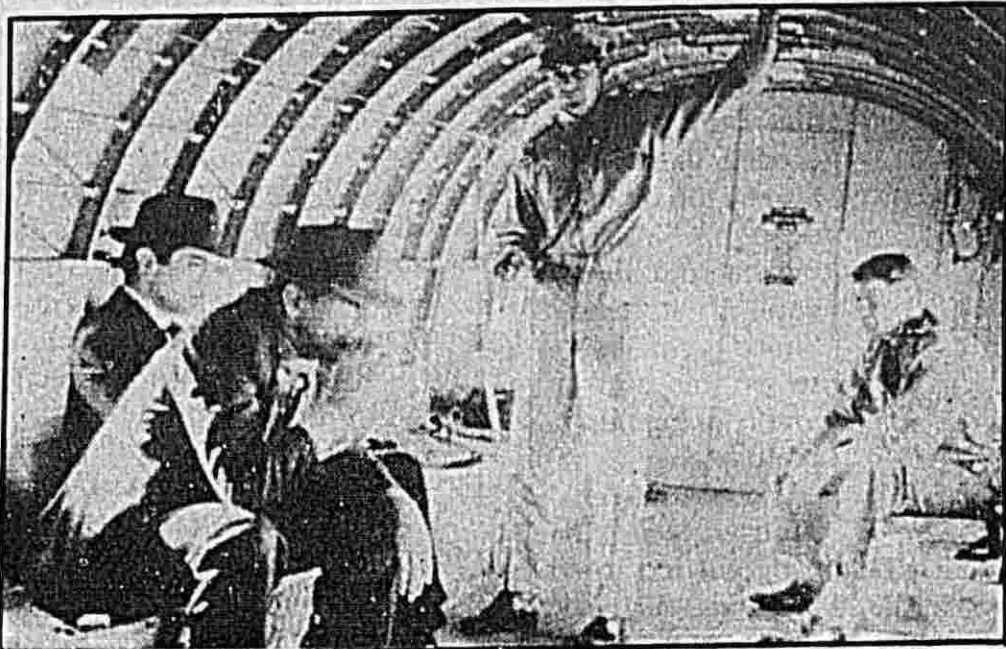

Now we've all become acquainted with Mulholland Drive through "Beverly Hills 90210" and a zillion movies, but Mulholland Falls? No, it's not a little town outside of east L.A., it's a cliff overlooking the California metropolis off of which a special LAPD squad tosses criminals whom the justice system seems unable to deal with legally. A similar story based on the hat squad had a short TV run a few years ago.

If you like the old black and white Humphrey Bogart-James Cagney- cops and robbers flicks, or if you could still read a good Mickey Spillane-Sam Spade pocket book, you'll probably dig Nick Nolte and his fedora topped quartet, completed by Christopher Penn, Chaz Palminteri and Michael Madsen.

This is a where its hard to tell the good guys from the bad guys because the good guys are just as bad as—oh well, you know what we mean! Suffice it to say the chapeau trio plus one believes in the end justifying the means, all with the police chief's blessing.

The cast is just about perfect, from a tough, heavier Nolte, to the ever present Palminteri, to a dying John Malkovich. The story which has the squad working to solve the murder of a beautiful girl found in the desert with every bone in her body broken, crosses over criminal lines to the federal government—or is that a cross over? P. S. the fact that the dead girl is an old lover of Nolte's spurs the hat squad on.

The story gets into nuclear weapons, a bad news Col. Fitzgerald, played by the capable

Nick Nolte, Chazz Palminteri, Kyle Chandler, Treat Williams

Treat Williams, who does the bidding of Malkovich, an anemic-looking general in charge of nuclear testing of sorts.

First, in the interest of good film noir atmosphere, it should have been a black and white flick. Second, its second cousin resemblance to that classic piece of nostalgia, "Chinatown," is just a bit much.

Third, it becomes increasingly hard to remember that Melanie Griffith won an Academy Award with all the mediocre parts she has been playing in recent years. She is completely wasted as Nolte's much put-upon wife. This is the type of role Laraine Day and Ruth Warwick thrived on in those days of yore.

There are few surprises here, but "Mulholland" is worth seeing, the rub is that it could have been so much better, almost good as the TV promos promised it would be. Mulholland gets a three out of five stars rating from us although it should be a video blockbuster.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Quit whining

I'm from Grayslake and I'm working two jobs to make enough money to send my child to Carmel. I'll be lucky to get a two percent increase in my salary. My kid's teachers are crying to my kid about their 13 percent increase for next year. They have only one full week of school before summer break before they come back in mid-August. Wake up, Carmel. We send our kids there to be educated, not whined at by people who work for less than half a year.

Say no again

Now let me get this straight. Pat and Mike want to build a snazzy civic center and pool. And they want to issue bonds to pay for it. They say the landfill money will pay back the bonds, so no taxes needed. But the landfill money may not be coming and the amount may or may not be $25 million. So if the landfill money falls through or if they decide to build yet another village hall, the law says they can tax us to pay back the bonds. What happened to no taxes needed? We said no twice already, let's just say no again.

An irritation

So Pat Carey will listen to 90 percent of the voters. Well, let's see. In just three years, Pat has irritated the police department so much that now they're union and irritated the park district users with her disillusion attempt. She's irritated people who snowmobile, roller blade, skateboard, or use electricity. She's irritated Chesapeake with a bike path and Lexington with $800 water bills. She's irritated the Fair Association to the point that they threaten to move and irritated environmentalists by taking a landfill. If my calculations are correct, about 90 percent is the amount of voters that will vote against Pat's reelection.

Disaster on its way

Wake up, Antioch. Once again our elected village officials are siding with the developers and builders and ignoring our complaints. The most recent example is the new housing subdivision for the cable property at North Ave. and Tiffany. On this location, the builder's going to cram in 440 homes on 160 acres, approximately three homes per acre at an average cost of only $130,000. These numbers add up to financial disaster for our village. Our schools, roads, and public services aren't capable of handling such a high density development. Remember, we voted these elected officials into office, and we can vote them out!

Get machines out

I want to respond to the comment about gambling. It's not only Fox Lake who has slot machines. It's Round Lake and Antioch, too. Maybe the cops shouldn't be sitting around eating donuts at White Hen, but out policing this and removing the machines so those poor people wouldn't lose their paychecks every week.

Miss the Globe

I still miss the Globe Dept. Store in Fox Lake. I miss it for the holidays and special occasions. No department store in our area now can compare to the shopping at the Globe. It brought class to Fox Lake.

Thanks, teach

I'm calling to thank Catherine Prendergast for being a teacher at McGee School. She's revitalized my son's interest in education. We need more people like her. We've already lost Mr. Dunn. Let's not lose Cathy. She's part of the reason there's pride on the hill. Continue the good work!

Tax info

I'm calling with regard to Grayslake's new tax on our electric bills, which amounts to approximately 2.575 percent. It was passed in place of the city vehicle stickers. If people will look at their bill, this tax will give the village more money. This is not being allocated to any specific thing, it's being used as a municipal tax, which means it can be used for almost anything. It also was passed without a referendum. It is also taxing a tax on a tax, because your state and regulatory taxes are included before your municipal tax is measured. It also is capable of being raised because there is no ceiling on it. Since they've already put it on our ComEd bill, it'll be easy to put on our phone and gas bills.

Use doggie bag

If you have a dog and you walk through the neighborhood, you'd better bring a doggie bag because I'm going to call the police each time a dog leaves waste on my lawn. I'm so sick of irresponsible owners.

Reduce the limit

A lady called from Wauconda recently and mentioned the 25 mph speed limit. I've lived in Wauconda for years, with a stop sign in my front yard. I'm on one of the main streets and yet I have a 3-year-old with no boundaries and doesn't understand the rules of the road. People blow the stop sign all the time. What's going to happen if a child gets hit because people are careless? The rate should go down to 20 mph at the rate people are driving. If they're flipping people off, it's their problem, not yours.

Use golden rule

This is to "Love dilemma." If the shoe was on the other foot, how would he want to be treated? He should treat the one he's married to the way he'd want to be treated.

Don't patronize

I live in Wauconda and enough is enough. Does Wauconda really need three grocery stores and Lake Zurich three discount stores? Maybe if the people would stop patronizing these establishments, they will go out of business and developers will think twice about building in this area and we can have our rural atmosphere back.

Do it now

This is in regard to "Love dilemma." I think they're mature enough to know that they should be with the person they love. They should do it now before any children get hurt.

Voters thinking

Congratulations to the thinking voters who have gotten rid of Depke. Someone who deserved to be voted out also, is Swank.

Lake Garbage

I'm from Antioch and I'm concerned about the pollution going into our lake. There's couches, garbage, propane containers, etc. No one ever seems to comment on it, but yet there's more and more garbage going into Channel Lake. When is something going to be done?

Test the teachers

In a recent article in your paper titled "Union and board clash over RIF notices," there was a quote from a press release written by a representative of the Education Association of Round Lake: "...which neither the board or the administration gave us any credit." If accurately quoted, this sentence says more about why our schools are failing our children than anything. I once visited my son's classroom and saw a wall decoration done by the teacher which said, "The bird's fly south for the winter." In notes home, I have seen "there" for "their" and "then" for "than." Illiterate teachers can never produce literate students. I suggest that in order to qualify for their next raise, teachers be required to pass with a grade of 80 percent or better, a basic written English literacy exam.

Congrats, team

I'd like to say congrats to the Wauconda Chiefs under-10 team for winning first place in indoor soccer this season. You did a great job and we didn't want to let it go unnoticed. We're all proud of you: Ryan A., Mike, Kyle, Trevor, Ryan H., Karl, Patrick, Sarah, Tommy, Brian, Josh, Ryan T., Phillip, and Eric, you all did a great job!

Days are numbered

To the village of Fox Lake residents, it's spring cleaning time. Only one year until the next election, so it's time to take the trash to the corner by removing Clerk McNally and Mayor Hamsher from office. Let's elect honest, intelligent individuals to run this village instead of having to hire a village manager. Remember, our future is in your hands. To Clerk McNally and Mayor Hamsher, your days are numbered, so watch out.

Smell the asphalt

This is in regard to the lonely homeowner who's hiding something. Welcome to my parlor, said the spider to the fly. You are very predictable. It appears that a raw nerve has been struck based upon your responses. Once again you are caught up in mistruths. Perhaps Fortune 500 companies prefer dishonesty in their employees. You'll find the rest of the world prefers honesty. Open your eyes. No one is infringing on anyone's rights here. You were made a handsome offer and refused. The road issue is not an issue. Equal or better access is all that is required. Asphalt and curb is better in everyone's eyes but yours. Again, a sign of being brain dead. It sounds like you're someone without a life and starving for attention. It's spring now. Maybe soon you'll wake up and smell the roses.

Do some research

This is for a newcomer. Why don't you wake up? Every issue you bring up is nothing new. It's been done before. If you'd just do your homework, you would have learned the watertower issue was addressed long ago. Now you bring up the Cedar Lake and 134 intersection. Once again, last year it was addressed. We have a local government who is on top of everything in our town and do everything in the town's best interest. In case you haven't noticed, you're part of that government. I think you missed something. Instead of always blowing your own horn, start at the proper level. Why don't you do some real research instead of the little bits of digging you do. Remember, a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. You're new to our town and it shows. If you don't like how Round Lake is run, move to another area where you're happier.

Outnumbered

I've been a Lake County resident for 45 years. I went to the Fremont Library to review their public records of the testimony given at the Route 53 meeting held in Mundelein and Grayslake in January. The facts show that a vast majority of the people that showed up were husbands and wives, mostly from Long Grove, who actually live near the roadway. Who's been on the books longer, Long Grove or Route 53? Definitely Route 53. You people who say you represent all of Lake County and oppose the road are few in number and should not have bought your homes near the roadway. You have actually caused the need for the road. Perhaps this newspaper could actually do some research and go over the testimony and print the results. The facts will speak for themselves. The people who oppose Route 53 are very few in number: 500 people out of how many hundreds of thousands in Lake County.

Squeezing tight

The Grayslake Village Board did away with car stickers and instead approved a new municipal tax on our electric bill. Commonwealth Edison has the highest rates in the country, so they picked one that's expensive. I average about $1200 a year. If you multiply that by the 2.5 percent charged, it's really .42575 times $1200. My yearly fee would be $30.90. That doesn't sound right or fair. I even think it's illegal. I don't think this system is right. I'm sure the village board knows ComEd is going to raise rates, so I'm going to be paying even more. I wonder what the village board can do to squeeze more money out of the people who would have only paid for one sticker instead of the average family's three stickers for three cars?

The answers

In response to "Let's ask questions," if you're calling from Wadsworth, you should be better informed before you start running your mouth. Number one, the charity you refer to is the Illinois Fire Alliance Children's Burn Camp. The monies donated were raised by friends of the Newport Volunteer Fire Dept. for that specific purpose. Number two, the fire chief is not elected, it's an appointed office. Number three, the fee paid to the volunteer fire department is a very small portion of your tax bill. If you're really worried about those taxes, I recommend you ask those questions to your county village board and to the Warren Twp. High School Board.

Melting pot

I'm calling in regard to the comments a woman made in the April 5 edition. She said Spanish people are biracial and she has a plan to solve the problem. Tell that woman to buy some books and educate herself and get a job. This country has grown because of people coming from other countries.

Too bad

While driving down Washington Street, I noticed that a new subdivision has a large sign advertising Grayslake schools. Too bad it's also Grayslake Park District and library. Round Lake's are excellent.

Disgusting dilemma

A life preserver for "Love dilemma?" I'd like to throw you and your power mower one with concrete blocks attached to make sure scums like you can never again walk among us with good morals. It takes a lot of stamina and self respect to maintain good morals. It's not easy. Trashy people like you disgust the majority of us.

Quit belly-aching

This is to the person that was belly-aching about how the politicians, policemen, and firemen are all allowed to play golf for free. Quit worrying about other people and worry about yourself. If you don't like paying for golf, then quit playing.

Early risers

I notice when I go by the Fox Lake Village Hall every day at 6 a.m., I see a big black car and a nice little red car. They must have some really important meetings up there early in the morning.

We're with you

This is in response to "You are not alone." You do not stand alone from Round Lake. There happen to be quite a few of us out there who would like to continue to correspond through LIPSERVICE to get the message to everyone. In what way is the harassment? Physical, verbal, sexual? And what is your gender? Ours happens to be female.

A real challenge

Once again the magic money management strategies of Round Lake School Dist. 116 have become evident. Project Challenge, the system's gifted student program, has been revised to "reach more students," according to Dr. Zimmerman. But it's already reaching five percent of the student population, the maximum that the state will fund. The salary of the program's main teacher is currently 82 percent funded by state grant. How will the district actually save money by way of modifying the program in such a way that they will have to pay 100 percent of her salary, rather than 18 percent? This is an academic program for students who exceed their grade level but aren't ready for additional grade advancement. Dr. Zimmerman insists this program isn't being eliminated, rather "modifying its delivery." But she's not giving any details as to what that actually means. It's time for some answers. The students deserve to have a plan in place before they return to school in fall. It's my belief that they deserve to have a plan in place before they leave school this summer.

Great library

I thought it would be refreshing to see something positive about our town in LIPSERVICE. The residents of Fox Lake have the finest library in the area. The librarians are courteous and friendly and when asked for assistance, they are genuinely happy to help. Maybe a few of the contributors to this column should stop in and enjoy. Maybe they might even learn something.

Don't pay 'em

I saw in the paper how much the trustees are making in Antioch. It's outrageous. They shouldn't be getting paid if they don't show up for meetings. As far as the comment about one trustee who said she works hours and hours getting information together, that's what she was elected to do.

It's Spring/Summer Hiring Time

The kids are out of school and are looking for that summer work, not to mention anyone else who could take advantage of summer employment. HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're charismatic and a joy to be around for the most part this week. Singles are apt to meet with romantic introductions unexpectedly toward the end of the week. In general, things are going pretty much your way now. Enjoy!

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A social function which you attend early in the week has pleasant business ramifications. In fact, you'll be meeting with an important opportunity for advancement or a possible career change. The weekend brings positive financial developments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Couples will be looking for some time to themselves this week and could wind up taking one or two vacation days toward that end. Remember, privacy is an ally to romance. Good news comes about a financial matter.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's a great week for interests of the heart and activities with children. Couples enjoy being in sync and are on the same happy wavelength. This weekend, romance is a definite plus for singles.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Benefits come through friendship, although you shouldn't put too much stock in what one person in particular is saying. Some are invited to visit friends at a distance. Romantic prospects are excellent as the weekend dawns.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You'll be happily engaged with a do-it-yourself project or work which requires you putting in some overtime. Later, it's an excellent idea to entertain guests in your home, provided you've completed that project.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Business and pleasure enjoy a happy marriage this week where you're concerned. Couples make informed decisions involving the use of joint funds which could lead to an important purchase. Your intuition is very much on target this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) In the beginning of the week, you find it easy to reach agreements with others. Some will be enjoying local sightseeing or an exciting day trip if on vacation. Leisure events and romance are highlighted this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There's an emphasis on partnership this week, both at home and on the job. Your feelings for your mate grow stronger. This weekend, you'll be meeting some interesting people on the social scene.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could be faced with having to make a major purchase for the home early in the week. Perhaps an important appliance needs replacing. Some receive a gift or favor from a relative over the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It's your charm and friendliness which come to your aid this week. If you want to, you can charm the birds out of the trees. Others are impressed by what you have to say. This weekend, enjoy leisure events and romance.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's worth your while to look for bargains before making that purchase you've been considering. Time is on your side, so don't rush into anything. Later in the week, rest and relaxation appeal.

Michael Jordan wants to give someone his Blazer for $23

Blazer to be displayed at Gurnee Mills, May 18

Did you ever try to imagine what it must be like to be Michael Jordan? To hit that fallaway jumper? To squeeze past two defenders and slam it home? To drive that really cool Chevy Blazer?

One of the fantasies will become a reality for the winner of a unique raffle sponsored by the Chicagoland Chevrolet and Geo Dealers Associations, WGN Radio and the Chicago Tribune and benefiting Special Olympics. Now through Sunday, June 16, fans 18 years and over in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin will have the opportunity to win the title to Michael's favorite vehicle—his 1994 Chevy Blazer. Best of all, Jordan is scheduled to personally turn the keys and title over to the winner.

Jordan, the honorary coach of Illinois Special Olympics and his longtime sponsor, the Chicagoland Chevrolet and Geo dealers, are making the Blazer available via a limited raffle of just 10,000 tickets. Appropriately priced at $23 each, tickets sales kicked-off May 6. The Blazer will be on display at Gurnee Mills, Saturday, May 18.

How to buy tickets

Tickets can be purchased at the display locations, participating Chicagoland Chevrolet and Geo dealers by mail. Checks should be made payable to Illinois Special Olympics and mailed to: ISO-MJ, 605 E. Willow, Normal, IL 61761. All proceeds benefit the training and competition programs of Illinois Special Olympics.

The ultimate prize

The 1994 Chevy Blazer is one of the limited "Michael Jordan's Editions."

It features a genuine rosewood grain dashboard, color-coded running boards, 24-karat gold plated emblems and a unique striping package featuring a trio of gold basketballs to commemorate the Chicago Bulls' three world championships.

Because it's Jordan's personal vehicle, it also features some unique extras including leather seats, a CD/cassette player and, of course, lots of legroom. A certificate of authenticity will be given to the lucky winner.

"The generosity and support of Michael Jordan and the Chicagoland Chevy and Geo dealers will help provide funds to expand and enhance training opportunities for Special Olympics athletes with mental retardation and closely related developmental disabilities," said Doug Snyder, president and CEO of Illinois Special Olympics.

HYUNDAI

—Ask Don New battery failure rare, get second opinion

Q. We bought a 1994 Buick lease car with only 23,000 miles on it in November 1995. After about 10 days, the battery went dead. The dealer said it was a bad battery and installed a new one. After another 10 days or so, the new battery was also dead. We returned it to the dealer, who kept it overnight and checked everything thoroughly. They could find nothing wrong with the car—no electrical “leaks” or anything that should cause this to happen. The car is guaranteed, but that does not help. Do you have any ideas? Joe E.

A. Only on rare occasions, and I do mean rare, have I heard of a defective battery in a new car. And I have never heard of the replacement also turning out to be defective. I am not saying this is impossible, only very improbable. In this instance, the dealer has replaced the battery and checked out the vehicle electrical systems. I would assume the technician to be capable and take a wait-and-see attitude. But if the problem occurs again, I would become belligerent and demand that my vehicle be repaired; and if I didn't get satisfaction, I'd go to a qualified electrical garage for repair, then “consult” with the dealer. I am also assuming you are sure nothing is draining the system that the mechanics may have overlooked—something like the courtesy lights or trunk light!

Q. I have a late-'70s Malibu with a 350 cubic inch V-8. The car has 74,300 miles on it and runs great except for a knuckle sound that comes from the front end on the driver's side in cold weather. I replaced the shocks and was told that upper and lower ball joints were in good shape, as well as the coil springs. The noise only comes when I drive over a dip in the road. I have noticed that the coil spring on the front driver's side looks more rusted than the others. Do you have any idea what the problem might be? Bill C.

A. It would seem you have an annoying, minor problem. I would soak all the rubber brushings on the front end with silicone spray and see if that does the trick. As for the rusted spring, unless it's nearly rusted through, I would only concern myself with whether it has the proper clearance to operate properly. If the problem persists during cool, dry weather, when you are sure you can cause the noise to occur, take your front-end mechanic for a ride and demonstrate it to him. I am sure an experienced front-end mechanic would be able to identify the problem.

Q. Our 1980 Honda has an automatic transmission with a sporadic “slippage” problem. I was told it could be a clogged transmission filter. When I took the car to my local mechanic, he told me my car had no transmission filter. Dennis M.

A. I have never heard of an automatic transmission without a filter. This isn't like an engine oil filter; it's inside the transmission. The pan must be removed to service the filter, a good practice for all car owners. At any rate, your transmission is in need of servicing.

It could simply need regular maintenance, or perhaps a problem does exist. If you don't check it out soon, one day you'll put the car into drive and it won't go anywhere!

SUMMER HELP WELCOME

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: Rumor has it that my company is about to undergo restructuring. While the rumor has been kept relatively low key, there are those of us who fear for our jobs. I have been with (name withheld) for four years and during that time have been a very dedicated employee always called upon to help out in different areas. I am loyal, conscientious, and tops when it comes to being a team player.
I am not sure whether or not I should be seeking other employment at this time. I don't feel I should start looking until I know what is in the cards for me here. I have heard that restructuring can be brutal. What do you suggest? J.G. - Libertyville

A: Dear J.G.: Key words... "Rumor" and "Restructuring". There is a big line between rumor and fact! And restructuring does not necessarily have to be negative! I have worked with many companies where by restructuring meant hiring on additional staff, not reducing staff. I would be concerned with the idea that this may only be a rumor, and those fellow co-workers jumping ship at this time may be making a big mistake. Don't listen to what may be idle gossip. If you have concerns about the possibility of restructuring... speak with your immediate supervisor. Explain that the rumor has been brought to your attention and that while you are not one to listen to rumor, you are coming to him/her to ask if this possibility does exist. Follow up immediately with the fact that you would hope if there is a form of restructuring, that the company will take into consideration your strong work attitude, your leadership qualities, loyalties and capabilities. In essence, your letter to me pretty much summed up everything you should let them know. You may want to inform your fellow co-workers that the term restructuring does not necessarily mean the company is in trouble. It may very well be that your company is cost conscious and would like to reorganize departments for efficiency as well. Spread the word... it is better to be known for spreading information rather than rumors. Should the possibility exist that the situation goes the other way, give me a call. You describe yourself as an ideal employee. Good luck!

Q: Dear...Search: With spring rapidly approaching, the desire for employees to get out at lunchtime is growing. While our company is one where most everyone stays in for lunch, the employees get together and asked the owner if it would be okay that if they (the employees) could raise the money for two picnic tables, would he allow it. We explained that we felt if we had the ability to spend our lunches outside, fewer employees would leave the premises at lunchtime, thus cutting down on coming back late from lunch and also allow the employees to get some fresh air and sunshine. In total, people would be happier. He asked to mull it over and would get back to us the next day. Much to our surprise, the next morning we arrived at work to find three picnic tables outside compliments of our company with a note: "To my fine employees: Ask and you may receive". So we hope you will allow us to say a big Thank You to Mr. (name withheld), but would also like you to tell your readers that most companies react well to constructive suggestions. Don't be afraid to ask. Sign us... Happy Campers!

A: Dear H.C.: Good suggestion...very well posed to your employer. Hope you have loads of sunny days.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee & Vernon Hills. Letters can be sent

Griefnotes

You can help in a number of special ways. Through reaching out and offering support in the form of listening and presence you will help a great deal. Ask your friend how they are doing. Mention the deceased by name and allow the bereaved to continue discussion about the deceased if they wish. Many bereaved report feeling isolated. You can help by including them in your social groups. Contact with the grieving

ioned song

Brings us a thought of you;

Sometimes a flower as we pass along,

Or a sky that is azure blue;

Or a silver lining in

When the sun is peeping through.

All of these things, make us think of

PET OF THE WEEKAMBER

"AMBER" is a prim and pretty, domestic short hair brown and cream tiger with big green gold eyes, a pink nose and a wonderful "CAT-sonality." But life isn't fair, and it certainly hasn't been fair to Amber. Amber is in excellent health and is totally asymptomatic, but tests positive for feline AIDS. We believe that Amber came into contact with the disease and is a carrier. Carriers rarely get sick themselves and usually live a healthy, normal life span. Amber is an easy-going cat and she gets along beautifully with other cats, being neither submissive nor aggressive. Responsive and very affectionate, we would love to see this adorable two year old find a loving indoor-only home. If you have an AIDS positive or feline Leukemia positive cat that would love a companion or if you have a special heart for cats that have a special need, please come and see little Amber. She's a bundle of love with a special need and a life that deserves to be lived. Ask for Gail or Julie.

JULIUS 2

The Julius 2 may be entered through the recessed gabled entry, protecting you from inclement weather. The garage entrance is located within the entry for easy access.

Kitchen amenities include a dishwasher, large walk-in pantry, range and oven. Tucked in behind the kitchen is a utility room with space for a washer and dryer. The eating bar connects the kitchen to the nook and dining room, for easy access by the cook of the house.

Elegant in its simplicity, the living room is adorned with two large windows for enjoying nature. It is sure to be a gathering place for the family.

The private master suite is large, with plenty of windows to enjoy the morning sun or an evening sunset. Its amenities include a large walk-in closet, a private bath with linen storage, and a shower.

The second floor recreation/den is spacious and made for relaxing after a long day at work or school. This enormous room has enough space for a pool table or Ping-Pong table, a big screen television, and a couple of couches. For outdoor entertainment, the deck is accessible from the recreation/den through sliding glass doors.

Completing the floor plan on this level is a bedroom with vaulted ceiling, a large walk-in closet, and a built-in desk. The bedroom shares a bathroom with the recreation/den.

The garage has a large storage or shop area in one corner. There is room for plenty of storage. The odd jobber of the house will have plenty of space for working on hobbies or fix-it projects.

Businessman uses talents to live 'multiplicity of dreams'

SUZIE REED
Staff reporter

When Efreem Stringfellow was growing up in Chicago Heights in a household of six children, he already knew he wanted to be involved in the business world.

"I was always a firm believer in what my parents and family used to preach—the multiplicity of dreams," he explained. "I had dreams from that standpoint and also in terms of academics and a career."

Those dreams, and a track scholarship to the University of Illinois, took him to an upper management position at IBM. Stringfellow, 37, was named vice president of general business for IBM in the Midwest, a territory that encompasses 11 states.

Reflecting on his days at the U. of I. Stringfellow recalled, "I ran track and went to class." He earned a degree in business administration with an emphasis on marketing. Among his athletic honors was the title of Big 10 Champion in the triple jump. He quickly made the transition to the business world when IBM recruiters lured him to the Springfield office. Six years of training in various marketing and technical jobs prepared him for a stint in Dallas as an instructor.

"I led a team of instructors

Efreem Stringfellow
who taught new employees not only IBM products, but marketing and sales techniques," he explained.

He relocated to the Chicago area seven years ago and held several different management positions, most recently as assistant to the area general manager.

"I didn't think I'd get here that quickly," he mused. "I'm fortunate in the sense that I work for a company that values its employees and is willing to aggressively move people through the business who have earned the right to take on additional responsibility."

Stringfellow appreciates his good fortune and hasn't forgotten what it was like to grow up in a less affluent neighborhood. He serves as chairman of the board of the Lake County Urban League. The areas of Waukegan, North Chicago and Zion most resemble the community in which he grew up.

"One of the things I value is being involved in the community," he said.

Stringfellow lives in Mundelein with his wife Cynthia, a program coordinator for the Lake County Health Department. Their daughters, Erica, 9, and Nicole, 7, keep the two of them busy with softball, ballet and tap. They also have a son, Xavier, 20 months. Stringfellow works out of IBM's Oakbrook office.

ABT offers medical supplies close to home

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Seniors and patients won't have as far to travel for health equipment anymore, now that ABT Surgical Supply Company has come to the Chain O' Lakes region.

"It's a whole industry to make them live better, make them more mobile, and to make them more independent," said Yuri Logvinsky, ABT co-owner.

He and partner Alex Akselrud, both natives of Russia, began their quest into the medical supply business with a company they started in Chicago five years ago.

Last month they expanded into Fox Lake—an area with a high concentration of senior citizens.

After talking with officials and physicians, and seeing a need in the town, Logvinsky decided to open a second location. "What the heck," he said he told himself. "Let's give it a shot. If we can help some people and we can do business, why not?"

Everything from hospital beds to oxygen pumps can be either rented or purchased through ABT.

"A lot of people don't realize you can get a lot of things through Medicare," explained Chris Loeffler, Fox Lake store manager.

Logvinsky said if the items are medically necessary, most insurance will pay for part or all of them.

While a large variety of things are already in stock, certain pieces of equipment can be specially ordered.

Among some of the items found at the shop are different models of wheel chairs, both electric and standard which can be purchased for long term use, or rented temporarily. There are even four-wheeled chairs called scooters to help the recovering person get around.

Other medical supplies available at ABT are canes. There is a large array of hardwood or metal models. Quad-canes, with four little legs are another type of cane for a more sturdy hold. Reachers are also popular items for those who need a little help grabbing things up or away.

Jobs, real estate boom give county a healthy glow

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Blessed with low unemployment and an appreciating residential real estate market, Lake County is riding the crest of a Midwest economic renaissance.

That was the good news brought by Diane C. Swonk, deputy chief economist for the First Chicago NBD Corporation speaking at the 5th annual Executive Breakfast for the Lake County Economic Development Commission.

audience of 230 at Marriott Lincolnshire.

"President Clinton is going to be the beneficiary of a solid economy, in my opinion," declared Swonk, 34, who is one of the most respected economists in Chicago, in answer to a question. She avoided politics in her 35-minute talk covering national, regional and Chicago-area business conditions.

Current economic conditions are being driven by corporate America, in the opinion of Swonk, with leadership that is committed to reducing costs, increasing productivity "and lots of profits."

Consumers aren't playing much of a part in the healthy Midwest economy, Swonk said. "This is a 'different' kind of economy," an economy that creates jobs, but not job security," the economist stated.

The midwest is strong economically because of a reliance on exporting and that housing has continued to appreciate through the 1990s in contrast to either coast where home values are still shrinking. "This means people can upgrade comfortably by taking profit out of their former homes," said the widely quoted business commentator.

Terrible weather, the General Motors strike and two federal government shutdowns combined to give 1996 "a confusing start," Swonk remarked.

Among awards presented was the Charles E. deRivera Memorial award to Daisy and Wadell Brooks Sr. of North Chicago for Daisy's Resource Developmental Center, which provides care and guidance for young women.

EDC's first ever Business/Education Linkage Award was presented to Mallinckrodt Veterinary, Inc., and Mundelein High School.

-This Way to Wealth— Stretching charitable dollars takes planning

ALAN FRIEDLANDER
Correspondent

You believe in the importance of charity, that of making the world a better place for your children and grandchildren. But are you a philanthropist? If you are like most people, you are probably shaking your head "No." Well, you are wrong.

The fact is, everyone is a philanthropist. Some are proactive, directing their effects to causes that perpetuates their values, goals and beliefs. Others give back to society by default, through taxation.

Consider that when John Rockefeller Sr. died, leaving some $550,000,000, his family paid only about $17 million, a mere 3 percent of his estate, in taxes. They used the rest that would have been taxed to support favorite charities.

Conrad Hilton's family, on the other hand, was hit with a tax bill of $105,000,000, a whopping 70 percent of his $150 million estate. Like the Rockefellers, the Hiltons made a substantial gift, but they unwittingly let the government allocate it.

The difference is gift planning, and it is not just for the super rich. You don't need a lot to give a lot. What you must have is a smart strategy. For example, cash is the most common gift. Unfortunately, it's the least beneficial, providing the only charitable income tax deduction.

With a gift of appreciated securities, on the other hand, you also avoid a capital gains tax. So the same size donation will cost you less. Or, from the charities' perspective, you can give more.

Life insurance can make a moderate contribution go even further. Instead of an outright cash donation, you might use that money to purchase a policy

Motorola museum featured on day trip

The Museum of Electronics at the Motorola campus in Schaumburg and the beautiful country estates and horse farms of Barrington will be featured in a one-day excursion sponsored by the College of Lake County on May 14. Entitled "The Golden Corridor: Motorola and Barrington," the trip will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

The bus will pick up tour participants at 8:15 a.m. from the south entrance of Marshall Field's at Hawthorn shopping center and at 8:45 a.m. from CLC's Southlake Educational Center, 1860 First St., in Highland Park.

Highlights of the trip will include a tour of the Museum of Electronics, which provides a history of Motorola and the electronics industry from its early radio days to present microcomputer technology. Visitors will also take a walking tour of downtown Barrington and have lunch at the Greenery restaurant located in an 1883 schoolhouse.

The cost of the tour is $39. For information, contact the Southlake Educational Center at 433-7884.

naming your charity of choice as a beneficiary. If you have a fully funded policy which you no longer need for family protection, you might give that. In both cases, you get income tax deduction and the charity receives tax-free proceeds at death.

The most versatile tool is the charitable remainder trust, which offers lifetime income for you and your spouse, with the remainder passing to your designated charity. There are two CRT options: an annuity trust for a fixed amount of annual income, of Unitrust, which pays a variable amount. Either way, you will get an income tax deduction and you might avoid a capital gain boot.

Before adopting any gift strategy there are some steps you need to take. Start by reviewing your financial and giving goals. Next, obtain an assessment of your estate profile. Armed with this information, consult advisors—your attorney, accountant, life insurance professional, financial planner—who have earned your confidence. Be sure they also have experience in estates and gift planning; the tax rules governing this area are complex and subject to change.

Above all, remember the primary objective of gift planning: to promote the good work of causes dear to you. Taking control of your money's final resting place is the way to make it happen. Alan Friedlander is a registered representative with the New England Securities and a member of the panel expert in This Way to Wealth.

Agency offers a look for success

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The first impression, it has been said, is a lasting one.

And when it comes to job interviews, looking the part may make or break a candidate's chances. A new not-for-profit agency is helping women look the part to secure that position.

Helping in that endeavor is Bottomless Closet, an agency which supplies women whose lack of resources to acquire appropriate attire impairs their ability to secure employment.

"The need is getting greater and greater for professional business clothing for the job interview. Our clients do not have the resources to purchase these clothes," Kathy Miller, executive director, said. "They are ready to begin to be interviewed, but do not look the part of other employees."

All clothes are donated, many times from business women already established in their professions.

"If you look the part, you can feel confident with interview skills and learn networking, time management and other skills," Miller said.

She told a Gurnee service club the agency helps women who previously were dependent on society become valuable employees, and go from someone who is not hireable to someone who is.

"We work with companies who supply goods and services. For example, Abbott Laboratories donated the office furniture for our Waukegan office. Business may also help provide the volunteers who work with clients and also provide professional services," Miller told Gurnee Noon Exchange Club members.

All of the volunteers work with the clients one-on-one; it is very attention focused. Some 40 women have been helped through the Waukegan office.

The agency is trying to coordinate day care services with the Illinois Department of Public Aid.

The Waukegan office, located at 1109 Washington Street, is a month old and open three days a week. Plans are for more of a Lake County presence with further marketing and an advisory board.

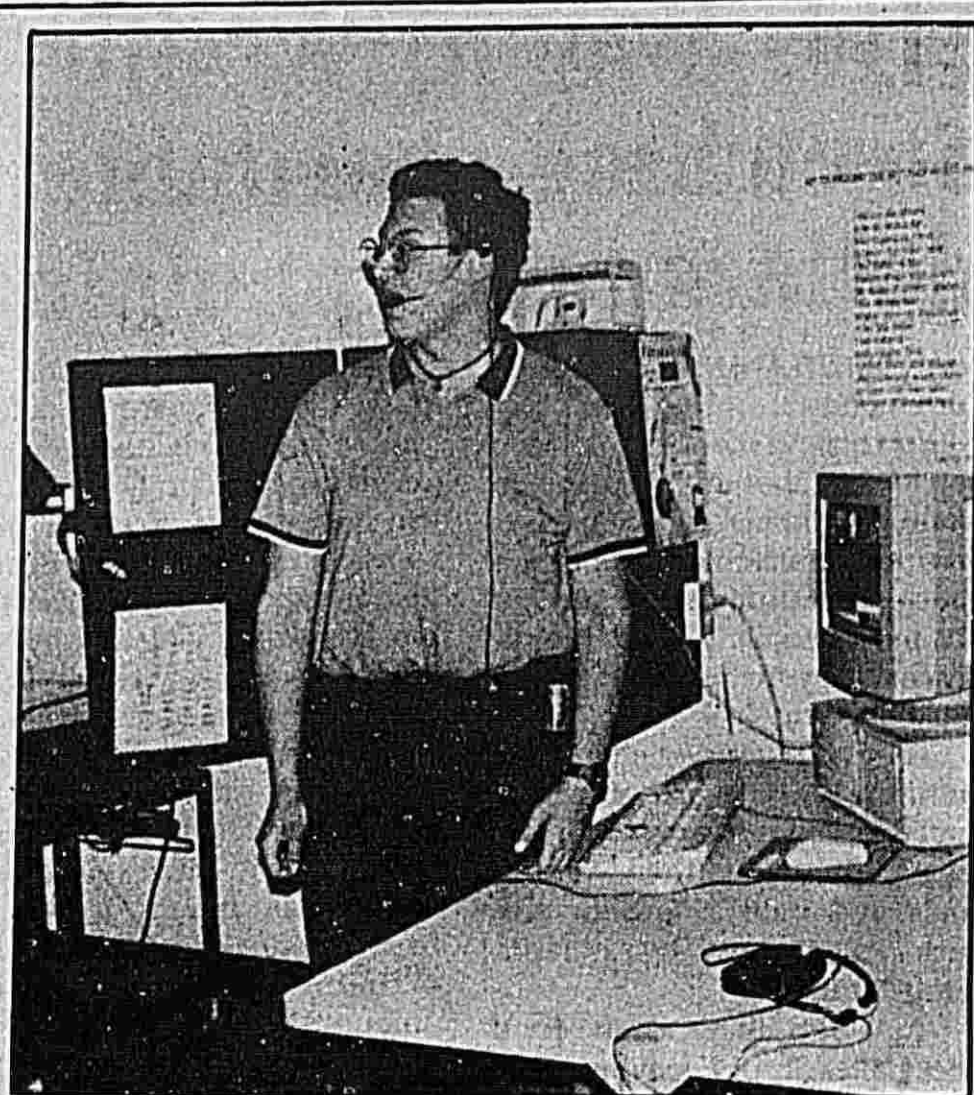

Volunteers are matched with clients on a one-to-one basis.

"Very often, the volunteers help women feel good about the career change they are making. We like to see ourselves as a resource," Miller said.

The average age of clients in Lake County is 25-30. "Most of our Lake County clients have had some work experience, while many of our Chicago clients have not," Miller said.

Volunteer orientations are held the first Monday of each month and at the end of each session, volunteers select the areas in which they wish to participate. "Everyone brings something different to the table," Miller said.

Waukegan officials welcome new plant

Stimsonite Corporation will construct a 137,000-square-foot office and manufacturing headquarters on a 20-acre site in Waukegan. Occupancy of the new building is expected in the spring of 1997. Stimsonite is a manufacturer and marketer of highway safety products, including raised reflective pavement markers, thermoplastic pavement marking materials and optical film used in the construction of highway signs.

Speakers at the groundbreaking ceremony included Mayor William F. Durkin of Waukegan and James C. Slifer, director of Illinois highways.

Stimsonite, commented how pleased he was that the company and its 250 Illinois-based employees would remain in the state.

He noted that the company had conducted an exhaustive search of possible sites over the past 18 months, with a strong preference to remain within Illinois. He complimented Mayor Durkin and his staff for their guidance and advice in assessing various possible sites, and he asked Slifer to thank Gov. Jim Edgar for fostering an excellent economic environment for manufacturing businesses.

"We are excited about relocating to Waukegan," stated Taylor.

Electric hospital beds can be ordered, and special pillows and cushions are also available.

Therapeutic soft goods such as shoes and boots, shoulder braces, and embolism stockings often worn by pregnant patients all are helpful items that make life more comfortable.

"We are between progress and medicine," said Logvinsky.

Each year technology continues to go up, and the quality of the items gets better and better, said the store owner.

"If you compare the electric wheelchair six years ago with that of today, it's lighter, easier to use, and more dependable and quiet," Logvinsky said. He added the same goes for the oxygen pumps. Today they are more stable and reliable.

Logvinsky said he's spoken with an Ingleside physician—the owner of a medical clinic, who is eager to spread of the word of the new company to his patients. "The patients no longer need to go 20 miles or more for a cane," the shop owner said.

"We want people to say we're here for them," he explained. The services ABT offers include instructing clients about safe and appropriate use of equipment, and sending representatives to the client's home if necessary, to assist with a product.

Logvinsky decided to stay in the medical arena even after leaving Russia. He was into his second year at medical school with dreams of becoming a heart surgeon. "I left before I finished, but I like what I'm doing now. It's another way I can help," he said.

Prairie Crossings, a residential conservation community in Grayslake, is proving conserving energy can be cost effective.

Prairie Crossings has become the first community in the nation to adopt the Building America Program which is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy. It assists developers in building energy efficient, environmentally sensitive, affordable housing.

"These Prairie Crossings homes are among the most energy-conscious production homes built in the United States. The partnership between Prairie Crossings and DOE's Building America program brings together the nation's best experts on systems engineering, energy efficiency and healthy buildings," said Christine A. Ervin, Assistant Secretary for Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy at the DOE, in Prairie Crossing to make the announcement.

Prairie Crossing test homes use approximately 50 percent less energy than comparable houses built in Illinois using standard construction practices, according to tests by the National Renewable Energy Laboratory. Lake County officials recognize the advantages of Building America and developed a voluntary energy code in support of the Prairie Crossing development.

"Prairie Crossings is committed to conservation and building a sustainable community," said Vicky Ranney, vice president of Prairie Holdings Corporation.

'Prairie Crossings is committed to conservation and building a sustainable community. Adopting the new technologies developed as part of the Building America Program is part of that commitment.'

—Vicky Ranney, vice president of Prairie Holdings Corporation

"Our mortgage lender, Norwest, will be making energy efficient mortgages available to interested home buyers. These mortgages will take into account that our home buyers will spend less to heat and cool their homes. Lenders will therefore allow buyers to spend a higher percentage of their incomes on purchasing their homes.

Major home builders and home product industry leaders have joined DOE in investing money in the program. As part of Building America, four housing industry teams are developing new technologies to increase residential energy efficiency. At Prairie Crossings, builder Shaw Homes, Inc., of Chicago is working with the Building Science Consortium team, headed by Joe Lstiburek and Betsy Pettit.

Shaw Homes has built or is now building 46 houses at Prairie Crossings, a community planned for 317 single-family homes on 667 acres of land, which is part of the Liberty Prairie Reserve in Grayslake. More than 350 acres of the community are dedicated to prairies, pastures, gardens and lake.

Building America construction guidelines call for greater insulation and airtightness in the homes and the use of durable or recycled-content materials to minimize on-site waste.

"We have found that the energy-efficient homes at Prairie Crossings cost no more the build that other comparable homes in Illinois. Buyers want energy efficiency and low utility bills for their homes," said Charles Shaw, Chairman of the Shaw Company. "We want to demonstrate to other builders and developers that construction energy-efficient houses is sensible and cost effective. In adopting Building America, Prairie Crossings has become a model for communities throughout the nation."
